War Alarms Widen In Yugoslav Crisis

HITLER CALLS HOME STAFF OF HIS LEGATION

Code Message to Belgrade Tips Diplomats That Germany Decides on War.

BLITZ FORCES AT BORDER

Libyan Campaign Revives as British Press Ahead in Other Parts of Africa.

(By Associated Press)

War alarms reached a vibrant pitch in the Balkans today as Adolf Hitler called home the German legation staff in Belgrade and diplomatic circles declared that the Nazi fuehrer had apparently decided that war with Yugoslavia was inevitable.

Vladimir Macek, Croatian peasant party leader, announced he was entering the pro-British King Peter II's new government as vice premier—thereby making Yugoslavia a united nation under the threat of war.

Previously, the Germans had asserted that Yugoslavia was torn by internal dissensions among the Croats, Slovenes and Serbs.

In neighboring Hungary, the Hungarian government was reported to have resigned following the mystery-tinged death of Premier Count Paul Teleki, who was known for his personal pro-British sympathies.

A coded telegram from Berlin at 7:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m. EST) called for the withdrawal of the entire Nazi legation staff in Belgrade except the charge d'affaires and the military attache.

German quarters declared frankly:

"The withdrawal carries grave implications of the inevitability of war breaking out soon."

German motorized "blitzkrieg" forces were reported massing in large numbers on the Rumanian frontier, opposite the Yugoslav

PLANS RECESS

Congress Expects To Begin Easter Vacation Tonight.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Congress expects to begin an Easter vacation tonight after a three months' session during which it enacted the unprecedented lend-lease program and voted or started toward passage more than $20,000,000,000 in appropriations.

When it goes to work on Monday, April 14, its biggest problem probably will be consideration of legislation to curb strikes which hamper defense production.

The legislative wheels will not stop turning completely during the recess. The house, with the consent of the senate, will recess from the time it adjourns today until noon on the Monday following Easter. The senate will hold bi-weekly meetings.

BULETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The United States today demanded the immediate recall of the Italian naval attache in Washington, Admiral Alberto Lais, on the grounds that he was connected with the sabotaging of Italian merchant ships in this country.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Secretary Morgenthau said today he and Attorney General Robert H. Jackson were "studying" possible action to forfeit to the United States 30 German and Italian vessels seized last week-end.

Morgenthau, in his first press conferences since the ships were taken into custody, declined to discuss the problems of forfeiture, and referred reporters to the attorney general.

The 1917 law under which the Axis ships were seized because of sabotage by the crews also provides that the government may ask forfeiture of the ships as a penalty for such sabotage.

Asked whether he had any information that sabotage of the ships was ordered by any diplomatic representatives of the Axis in this country, the secretary said, "the facts speak for themselves."

New and more vigorous protests against the seizures came yesterday from the Axis powers.

FDR SCOUTS CONVOY TALK

President Calls Suggestion 'Too Absurd' To Discuss at Present Time.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt, a well informed legislator said today, has told congressional leaders that suggestions for using the navy to convoy supplies abroad were "too absurd to talk about" at this time.

On Capitol Hill, however, opponents of the convoy idea showed reluctance to accept this as the final word, and one of them said he had information the question of convoying ships as far as Iceland was under consideration.

Several Republicans said they had voted against the senate's taking a 10-day Easter recess with the house because they were afraid that some action involving convoys might develop during their absence.

State Favoring By-Passing Truck Traffic on R-42

State highway officials today recommended the creation of a truck traffic by-pass in Mansfield to relieve the present flow of traffic through the city from U. S. route 42.

The department suggested that light vehicles continue their present practice of circling the public square. The report was made as the result of a hearing with a citizen's traffic committee here in January.

Mayor William J. Locke said that he had been informed that the department believed two new traffic lights should be installed on the proposed truck route which would follow Hedges and East First streets.

The mayor said that the city already had an ordinance calling for truck traffic on those streets. He said that he would ask council to appropriate funds for the installation of the lights as soon as possible.

The traffic lights would probably be placed at First street and Franklin avenue and at Diamond and First streets.

Ernest Adams, city electrician, said that the cost for the two new lights would be approximately $700. He indicated that even if the order for the materials was placed today that it would be doubtful whether the lights would be installed until late summer. He blamed the hold-up in the electrical equipment because of national defense contracts for the probable delay.

PREMIER OF HUNGARY ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

Suicide Revealed In Official Announcement of Death of Famed Leader.

REPORT CABINET QUITS

Resignations Follow Demise of Man Who Fought For Nation's Neutrality.

(By Associated Press)

BUDAPEST—Count Paul Teleki, 62-year-old premier of Hungary, died in the night and hours later the mystery of his death was partly clarified by an official Hungarian news agency dispatch which said he committed suicide.

The agency said the manner of death was determined by physicians who examined his body. No explanation was immediately forthcoming. Friends said the premier took poison.

The Hungarian government was said to have resigned as a result of Teleki's death.

The foreign office said the premier's death resulted from a heart ailment and denied first reports by friends that Count Teleki had taken his own life. Earlier dispatches also had said the count's wife died an hour before her husband but the foreign office said she was still alive, although very ill, at a sanatorium.

Ferenc Keresztes-Fischer, minister of the interior and head of the police and gendarmerie, became acting premier.

Teleki was chief of one of Hungary's great landed families and often was regarded as Regent Admiral Horthy's right hand man, remaining in the cabinet largely to circumvent complete German domination.

The premier personally was known as pro-English rather than pro-German but sought to maintain the appearance of neutral independence in order to make his influence the greater on the Germans, whose drain of

MEET TONIGHT

City Officials, C. of C. To Weigh Sewage Problem.

Mansfield's sewage problem will be studied by city officials and the Chamber of Commerce water and sewers committee at a meeting today at 7:30 p. m. in the Chamber's rooms, Farmers Bank building.

Bewildered by charges of inefficient operation of city's sewage disposal plant and demands for a program to improve the sewers, Mayor William J. Locke said today that the city would attempt to find just what should be done to better the situation.

"All the recommendations we have received so far," said the mayor, "are conflicting. No two engineers have agreed on what should be done and the state department of health has made suggestions differing from many of the reports. We would like to find the best possible action before we spend any of the city's money."

Municipal Light Plant Workers Vote to Return to Work.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Striking linemen at the municipal light plant voted 10 to 8 to return to work today under an agreement reached with Federal Labor Conciliator Hugh D. Friel and city officials.

President John C. Getreau of the Columbus Federation of Labor said the agreement was based on a city council promise to adjust the wages of linemen

TWO DEAD

Murder, Suicide Verdict Expected In Fatal Shootings.

STEUBENVILLE — (INS) — A murder and suicide verdict was expected in the deaths of Eugene Porter, 41, and his wife, Maude, 36. They were found fatally wounded when hotel employes heard shots and broke into their room.

Graphic Scenes as Mob Rule Rages In Strikes

After clubbing a non-unionist to the pavement, strikers are seen racing after workers who attempted to break the CIO United Auto Workers' picket line at the Ford works at Dearborn, Mich. The riotous picketing subsided when Ford representatives agreed to close the plant during settlement negotiations.

The clubs, bricks and other strike weapons hurled by opposing factions at the Ford motor plant at Dearborn, Mich., resulted in many head and body injuries as evidenced by these strikers receiving first-aid at a CIO emergency medical station located near the scene of battle.

A police tear gas shell, bursting on the pavement, routs these CIO strikers during rioting at the Allis-Chalmers plant in Milwaukee. The young man at right is throwing back an unexploded tear gas shell. The plant has ceased operation at the request of Gov. Julius Heil of Wisconsin to "prevent bloodshed." Forty-eight persons were hospitalized as result of the rioting.

WARNS DUMPERS

Sheriff Threatens Arrests For Rubbish Dumping.

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson issued a warning today against the dumping of garbage along highways and side roads in rural sections of the county, asserting that "we are going to make an example of the first person we catch littering the roadsides with rubbish."

The sheriff said he had received a number of complaints from rural residents about the practice which becomes an annoyance every spring.

"There is no excuse for anyone driving into the country to dump garbage when it can be taken to the city sewage disposal plant with less effort," Sheriff Robinson said.

Vining Lists Rules to Make Sales, How to Handle People

The customer got a break last night in the second of Vernon E. (Sam) Vining's weekly sales rallies in John Simpson auditorium.

"Show interest in the customer's problem," Vining told the 700 sales persons and business attending. "No major sale is completed the day you make it. It may be common-place to you but to the customer, a major sale is a novelty which has been seriously considered for weeks and even months."

Wearing a shiny new pair of red suspenders which he twisted and turned during his lecture, Vining proceeded to list ten rules for handling people to make good sales.

"Most of the customers who come in and get a half-hearted exhibition of salesmanship," said Vining, "go looking for a salesman and not merchandise when they say 'I'll look around a bit and may drop back.'"

Vining told his audience to pat the customer on the back, call him by name if possible, smile at him, be interested in him and let him know it, let him tell what he wants, and give it to him.

The nationally-known salesman warned against trying to classify a customer in advance. "The same people who look like they can't afford it now are going to be the ones who can," said Vining in em-

Company, Men Agree on Plan For Mediation

Clerks, Maintenance Workers Return To Posts; Production Still at Halt Pending Negotiations; Board Takes Over at Allis.

(By Associated Press)

Clerks and maintenance workers were called back to the strike-bound River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor company today under a union-company agreement after a federal mediator announced that "a plan has been evolved for settlement" of the dispute.

Production however, remained at a standstill while negotiations continued. James F. Dewey, federal mediator, did not announce details of his settlement plan.

While conciliation experts wrestled with the Ford strike and sought on another front to re-open the Appalachian soft coal mines, the long drawn out Allis-Chalmers strike was turned over to the national defense mediation board.

Michigan state police patrolled the vicinity of the Ford plant near Detroit after intermittent violence yesterday, first day of the CIO-called strike. More than a score of strikers and workers were injured in hand-to-hand battling during the day.

The CIO United Automobile Workers Union said the issues in the strike included a 10-cent an hour wage increase, reinstatement of workers discharged for union affiliation, "abolition of the Ford spy system," establishment of a seniority system, and a shop steward system.

A Ford company statement said the strike resulted from "a gigantic Communistic conspiracy to paralyze the industrial life of our nation."

In the Allis-Chalmers case, the mediation board took jurisdiction in a 10-weeks' old dispute which has held up production of $45,000,000 worth of national defense orders. CIO employes are demanding a union shop and wage increases.

Soft coal operators and CIO-United Mine Workers who are negotiating at New York on a new contract recessed early today reporting that "some progress" had been made.

When the old labor contract ran out Monday midnight, most of the bituminous mines in the nation shut down. John Steelman, federal conciliator, had predicted that a satisfactory agreement could be worked out my midnight tonight.

John L. Lewis, UMW president, yesterday opposed turning over the dispute to the national mediation board. He expressed distaste for what he said was the board's "formula"—"wiring the strikers to go back, bust their strike, then have them come to Washington to mediate for the remains of it."

The coal mining stoppage affects about 400,000 men and three quarters of the nation's bituminous production. The union has asked $1 a day wage increases, paid vacations, and a guarantee of 200 days work a year.

"To prevent runaway or excessive prices" due to the shutdown, Leon Henderson, defense price stabilization commissioner, yesterday ordered soft coal prices frozen at the March 28 level.

400 STILL IDLE AT HUMPHRYES

Company Officials and Union Leaders Confer Again on 'Work Stoppage.'

The "work stoppage" at the Humphryes Manufacturing company plant went into its second day today as more than 400 employes remained idle and continued to hold up all production at the plant.

Company officials and union leaders were in conference for the second time during most of this morning in an attempt to reach an agreement that will put the employes back to work.

A meeting yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel failed to bring an agreement, it was learned. Neither company representatives nor Adam Leitenberger, president of Local 756, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union could be reached today for comment on negotiations.

The plant's 400 production workers began their walk-out Tuesday night and by yesterday morning all of them had left, leaving the plant idle. There has been no official call for a strike, however, and union members said the "work stoppage" is a protest

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Arthur Dix, manager of the airport said at 11:45 a. m. today that a northbound Eastern Air Lines plane was two and a half hours overdue here from West Palm Beach.

He said he had not had the usual radio report from Melbourne, always received a half hour before the plane's arrival here. He said other flights were proceeding as usual.

Commander N. H. Leslie of coast guard divisional headquarters at Jacksonville said an order had been issued to all coast guard vessels and planes along the route to aid in a search for the plane.

Mansfield Purse Snatching Suspect Waives Hearing

Arrangements were made today to return an Ohio youth, who earlier this week confessed taking part in the slugging of three Mansfield women in purse-snatchings in January, to Youngstown to face first degree murder charges.

Owen Bickel, wounded when attempting to escape from Kalamazoo, Mich., officials after a purse-snatching, has waived extradition and will be taken to Youngstown next week from Albion, Mich., where he is under police guard.

Bickel is charged with the murder of Mrs. Alphonius Foley, 36-year-old mother of nine children in a purse-snatching attempt three weeks ago. He was Harold Cox, 20, of Millersburg, who surrendered to Coshocton county authorities.

Bickel was accused of the slaying by two girl companions who accompanied them to Youngstown. June McKnight Cox, 14-year-old wife of Cox, and Eileen

LIFE OF SLEEP ENTERS FOURTH YEAR FOR TOT

Child Smiles Occasionally as Reardon Family Keeps Up Hope.

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Little Mary Ellen Reardon has started the fourth year of a mysterious sleep from which doctors say there may be no awakening.

Gently cushioned in a pink crib where encephalitis struck her in 1938, pretty Mary Ellen looks much like any other little girl of 5. More peaceful, perhaps, but rosy-cheeked, with sparkling blue eyes and sofe blonde curls.

Her placid face is brightened by an occasional smile. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Reardon, believe the smile is a mark of recovery—an answer to three years of prayerful vigil.

Mary Ellen's parents interpret recovery in a slight movement of arms and legs—the first voluntary action since March 25, 1938. The child's fingers once were stiff from paralysis. Today they are straight and soft and flexible, and warm to hold.

It was 1938 when the child, then 2, fell ill with measles. Pneumonia soon developed, then a streptococcic throat infection. For a while she cried and mumbled, but gradually her voice trailed off, and burrowing her blond head into warm, ruffled pillows, she fell asleep.

Periodically she lifted her lids, but her eyes were blank. She could not speak, nor, apparently, think. Doctors said she had encephalitis, caused by a filtrable virus, a sleeping sickness for which medicine knows no remedy.

For most of three years, she lay paralyzed, unable to command her muscles in any way. She showed no consciousness; no response to food, to people, or to activity about her.

Her mother bathed and turned her. She was fed through a stomach tube.

Mary Ellen grew slowly. Now she is several inches taller and several pounds heavier. Her heart and lungs are strong.

A few months ago, she began to smile when her mother spoke. She started gulping her food like a baby. The paralysis disappeared from her legs and arms. At rare moments she moved them.

But she has not spoken.

SENIOR HIGH PUPILS TO ENTER STATE COMPETITION IN SPEECH

Gene Gump and William Kochheiser, Mansfield Senior high school pupils will compete in the Ohio Speech League contest in Columbus, Friday and Saturday.

Gump recently won the district speech tournament in Mansfield competing in the humorous declamation section. Kochheiser won the extemporaneous division of the same tournament. Winning first places in the district tournament qualified these boys for the state tournament.

The Columbus tournament will begin Friday afternoon. Judges for the tournament will be speech professors from Ohio State and Northwestern universities.

Gump has been taking an active part in speech activities for the past ten years. He plans to play in a stock company during the coming summer.

At the high school Gump has been head cheer leader, a member of the M and George Williams Hi-Y clubs.

Kochheiser has been interested in speech activities only during the past year. His ambition to be a lawyer led him to take an interest in public speaking.

At the state tournament Kochheiser will be given four subjects and allowed one hour to familiarize himself with the topics. He will then give a talk of seven minutes upon any one of the subjects, chosen by the judges.

Gump will present a humorous selection from the drama "What a Life."

Gump and Kochheiser will compete with district representatives from approximately 150 class A high schools throughout the state.

LOTS INCREASE

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Automobile parking lots in cities throughout the United States have increased 210 per cent since 1935, W. P. Swift, safety director of the Automobile Club of the Philadelphia, reports.

PIGEON STORY

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa.—(U.P.)—G. H. Merriman, Elmira, N. Y., and R. K. Leffler, Sunbury, Pennsylvania Railroad engineer and fireman respectively, had this story to tell when they finished a freight run from Renovo here recently:

A brown pigeon encountered the train near Renovo and paced it the entire distance, flying in the headlight beam. It accelerated or slowed its pace with the train. Ariving at Williamsport after 50 miles of this, the bird ate some bread crumbs from the hand of Merriman, then left the meal unfinished to take up position in the headlight beam of another train heading back toward Linden and Renovo.

1,000 IN ARMY

McGill Graduates Serve In Many Lands.

MONTREAL—(U P)—McGill university graduates, who formerly marched to classes armed with nothing more formidable than a sharp pencil and a nimble tongue, are rapidly enlisting in the armed forces of Canada. More than 1,000 McGill graduates and some 50 teaching staff members are reported to be in war service.

The student soldiers are scattered throughout the empire. The most recent addition to the list was 12 McGill graduates who have joined the South African forces.

Most noticeable gaps appear in the medical and dental teaching staffs, although the other faculties also are losing professors. Student ranks are being thinned. Some students have left their officers' training classes and abandoned their textbooks for the three branches of the service, navy, army and air force. It is expected further thinning of the students' ranks will occur as the session approaches its close.

MEETS TONIGHT

Security Union to Plan for Cleveland Meeting.

The Richland county unit of the American Security Union will meet at 7:30 p. m. today at headquarters at 15½ North Park street. John Sparks, president of the state and county organizations, said today.

He said a delegation from here will go to Cleveland Sunday for a state-wide meeting at which grievances of WPA workers from Cleveland and Akron will be considered.

A state grievance board will be set up to hear workers' complaints about conditions on projects, he said.

LIVING ALONE A CRIME IN 1672

HAVERHILL, Mass. —(U P)— In Massachusetts in 1672 you couldn't "live alone and like it."

When authorities discovered John Littlehals was a hermit they ordered him to settle in a family within six weeks, according to a WPA historical records survey.

The court record said Littlehals "lived in a house by himself, contrary to the law of the country, whereby he is subject to much sin." The court therefore ordered "that the said John Doe forthwith . . . within the time of six weeks next after date remove himself from the said place and sohtary life and settle himself in some orderly family in the said time."

GETS $500,000

HANOVER, N. H.—(U P)—A man who never went to Dartmouth has given the college $500,000 because he believes it a "wholly masculine institution."

Emil Brommer, Brooklyn, N. Y., manufacturer, specified in his will that the funds may not be used for the "so-called dead languages" or for maintenance of competitive athletics.

DIFFICULTY IN GETTING FARM HANDS AIDS AAA

10 Per Cent Increase Seen For Crop Program Here Because of Shortage.

A shortage of farm labor in Richland county this spring is expected to help bring an increase of at least 10 per cent in the number of county farmers participating in the AAA farm program for 1941, according to Guy Taylor, county AAA chairman.

Taylor predicted that about 75 per cent of Richland county's 3,400 farmers would sign up for the government soil conservation and parity program. Last year 65 per cent, or about 1,900 county farmers, participated in the federal farm program.

The increased number of participants also would boost the amount of government money county farmers will receive this year. With virtually all of the 1940 AAA checks distributed, records of the county AAA office show payments to farmers totaled approximately $116,000.

Individual payments ranged from less than a dollar to one check for $1,033 which went to a woman farm owner in the Lexington area. She farms several hundred acres of land. The 1940 payments, highest for the county since the farm program was launched, included $97,134 for soil conservation practices and about $19,000 in parity payments to effect a better balance between the prices farmers receive for their products and the earnings in other industries.

"Farmers are going to be short of labor because of the defense program and will not be able to handle the acreage they have planted in the past," Taylor said. "For that reason it is going to be easier for them to comply with the program for acreage reduction."

He added that a better understanding of the objectives of the AAA program in attempting to rebuild badly worn soil, prevent erosion, and keep the grain surplus down also will contribute to the increase in the number of participating farmers.

The army and booming defense industries have taken a number of men off Richland county farms in recent weeks, threatening a serious labor shortage in rural communities

The deadline for signing for the 1941 crop program is May 1. Taylor said most of the county farmers have been contacted by county and township committeemen, and he expected a number of them to sign agreements at the county AAA headquarters on North Diamond street this month.

HITCH-HIKER TRACED

HAMPTON FALLS, N. H.—(UP)—Enoch Grove, according to local historians, was the nation's first hitch-hiker. He once hitched a ride to Labrador aboard a fishing boat in the 1830s but because he disliked the skipper, Grove went ashore and walked back to Hampton Falls.

Wise buyers demand the tender beef that's Fresh!

TENDERAY SPEEDS UP NATURAL TENDERING 14 TIMES, OUTMODES WASTEFUL AGEING, CONSERVES VALUABLE JUICES, REDUCES LOSS OF NATURAL VITAMINS. KROGER'S TENDERAY IS THE WORLD'S ONLY GOVERNMENT PATENTED METHOD OF TENDERING FRESH BEEF. GRADE FOR GRADE, NO OTHER BEEF SO FRESH CAN BE SO TENDER! THIS CLAIM CANNOT BE TRUTHFULLY MADE FOR ANY OTHER BEEF.

Wise women know that ALL food, beef included, should be FRESH. Yet under old-fashioned methods, you had to buy tender beef that was aged and dried-out, or get fresh beef that was seldom tender. This "old order" is no more! Now you can buy the beef that's both fresh and tender — KROGER'S TENDERAY! Already, 10,000,000 Americans have found the new, delicious differences of Tenderay Beef — its complete tenderness, fresh flavor, rich juices and extra vitamins. ROAD HOUSE

HADDONFIELD, N. J.—(U.P.)—That old motorist gag about finding a tree or a house in the middle of the highway became a reality at Haddonfield when amazed drivers did see a house in the middle of the road.

The dwelling, a convent was being moved from one site to another a block away when the timbers gave way. The house remained in the middle of the road overnight, and the nuns remained in the house.

STOCKS BID UP MODERATELY ON TODAY'S MART

Commodity Trend Helps Keep Speculative Sentiment on Cheerful Side.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Stocks were bid up moderately in today's market without attracting any real buying rush.

Steels and rails, in front most of the time, included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Republic Steel, N. Y. Central and Pennsylvania.

Supported elsewhere were General Motors, Chrysler, Western Union, United Aircraft, U. S. Rubber, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Philip Morris and American Car & Foundry preferred.

Additional climbing tendencies displayed by commodities helped keep speculative sentiment fairly cheerful, brokers said, the "inflation" theme was a bit stronger as the government acted to set price limits on iron and steel scrap and soft coal.

Some market encouragement was derived from the Dun & Bradstreet compilation disclosing bank clearings in 23 cities for the week ended yesterday topped the $7,000,000,000-mark for the third time this year.

Further confirmation of the business swing also was seen in the survey of the engineering news-record placing heavy construction awards in March at a new peak for this month and the third highest ever reported.

HITLER CALLS HOME STAFF OF HIS LEGATION

Code Message to Belgrade Tips Diplomats That Germany Decides on War.

town of Bela Crkva—less than 50 miles from Belgrade.

Other fast Nazi divisions massed near Szeged, in southern Hungary, opposite the Yugoslav border.

Yugoslavia has 1,200,000 men under arms, but it remained a military secret whether the Balkan kingdom's general staff would elect to defend Belgrade. German circles predicted the capital would fall within 48 hours after Nazi troops crossed the frontier—if war should come.

Fears of an imminent German invasion were heightened when the Berlin radio—in early morning broadcasts reminiscent of the outbursts which preceded the Nazi invasions of Czechoslovakia and Poland—accused the Yugoslavs of committing atrocities against the German minority.

The Yugoslav government quickly issued a brief but firm denial of the "atrocity" charges, declaring:

"All reports of terrorism against the German minority are unfounded."

A possible clue to Germany's intentions came from Vichy, France, where rumors persisted that Italian troops were expected to relieve many units of the German army of occupation in France—freeing the Germans for service "elsewhere."

In North Africa, in the suddenly revived Libyan desert campaign, Hitler's high command asserted that German and Italian troops had recaptured Agedabia and reached the town of Zuetina, 80 miles south of Bengasi.

The German communique declared that the British—presumably a small outpost force—were beating "a hasty retreat northward" toward Bengasi.

Concurrently, the British middle east command announced that British troops striking into Ethiopia have captured Miesso, 180 miles east of Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital.

On another front — East Africa — another phase of the war seemed to be heading for a climax. British land and naval forces, squeezing the Eritrean Red sea port of Massaua in a giant nutcracker, confidently expected the town, and the colony, to fall at any time.

Other Fascist defenders fleeing fallen Asmara, Eritrean capital, headed for Ethiopia, possibly to join other Italian forces there for a stand in the colony Premier Mussolini wrested from Haile Salassie five years ago.

New and more vigorous Axis protests against U. S. seizure of German and Italian vessels in American ports left the United States unmoved today. The state department, it was said, was holding firmly to the position that the action was fully justified.

Bad weather kept British and German air forces grounded on the western front during the night. This morning, however, a German bomber was said to have been shot down over the channel.

Slashing new inroads on Britain's sea-borne supplies were reported in Axis capitals.

Berlin said the German navy had sunk 367,800 tons of merchant ships in the Atlantic from March 16 to 23; that Nazi warplanes destroyed two armed merchantmen totalling 16,000 tons in an attack on a British convoy off the Grecian isle of Crete, and that two 4,000-ton vessels were sunk near the British Isles.

Rome asserted that German and Italian planes sank six ships in two convoys in the eastern Mediterranean.

In London, the air ministry said RAF bombers scored hits on two armed merchant ships off the coast of Holland and left one of them sinking.

Travelers Report Troops Are Massed

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Travelers in the Balkans cabled to the United Press today reports that Germany had massed more than 200,000 crack troops in Rumania close to the Yugoslav frontier.

There was no confirmation of the detailed accounts of the Balkan travelers in news dispatches direct from any Balkan capital.

According to these accounts the Nazi forces are concentrated for the most part along the 110-mile stretch of frontier from Timisoara to Turnu-Severin.

(Dispatches from Budapest last December reported that headquarters for a German army corps had been established at Timisoara which is only 27 miles from the Yugoslav frontier and about 80 miles from Belgrade. Timisoara is in the Rumanian Banat area which adjoins the flat rolling Croat area of Yougoslavia which is largely without natural defenses and is believed by military experts to be subject to easy invasion if the Germans move in.)

Sullivan, 16, both of Coshocton, first accused Cox of the slaying but later stated that Bickel did the shooting.

In a preliminary statement to Prosecutor Carl M. Patterson of Coshocton, Cox declared that he remained in the car while Bickel attempted to snatch Mrs. Foley's purse and then shot her. Cox is being held on technical charges of investigation and the girls as robbery accessories.

Cox allegedly told Zanesville police that he and Bickel had participated in a series of attacks on at least five Zanesville women and also operated in New Philadelphia, Dover, Dennison, Mansfield and several other Ohio towns in the northeastern part of the state.

U. S. CONSIDERS SHIP FORFEITURE

Morgenthau Says Attorney General Studies Law on Axis Craft.

Asked whether the ships of any other nation might be taken into custody, Morgenthau replied that no advance notice of such action could be given, if it were contemplated. The secretary added that the coast guard, which is a treasury unit, had received letters of commendation from many officials of this government for the way in which it conducted the ship seizures.

The new protests — the second since the "protective" seizure of 30 Axis merchantmen last weekend—may cause some delay in the formal reply being prepared by the state department, it was said, but will not alter this government's position that its action was fully justified.

Hemisphere waters, meanwhile, became the grave of two more German vessels, raising the total of Axis shipping losses to 13 for the last four days.

The two Nazi vessels which fled Callao, Peru, on Monday without sailing papers were located in flames 200 miles at sea. There was no trace of their crews. It was uncertain whether the ships had been fired and abandoned, or whether they had fallen prey to an armed Canadian auxiliary known to be operating in the vicinity.

Farther south on the western coast of South America another German freighter put to sea from Talcahuano, Chile, but she carried so little fuel that maritime circles wondered what her intentions were. Three other Nazi ships in Chilean ports also made ready to leave.

The government of Venezuela lodged strong protests with Axis envoys at Caracas last night because of the burning and scuttling of four German and Italian ships in Venezuelan waters.

Meanwhile, Mexican authorities reported that they had thwarted a plot last night to add nine more vessels to the toll of Axis shipping destroyed in hemisphere waters since Sunday. The vessels were taken over by authorities Tuesday, but their German and Italian crews were permitted to remain on board.

Refuse To Plead On Sabotage Count

BOSTON —(AP)— Ten German mariners, indicted for sabotage aboard their seized tanker, refused to plead in federal court today, in order to avoid placing themselves voluntarily under the court's jurisdiction.

Judge Hugh D. McLellan thereupon ordered pleas of "not guilty" entered for each man on each of the three indictments and directed that they provide aggregate surety of $150,000, or else be held in jail.

Judge McLellan granted 10 days' delay to defense counsel for the filing of special pleas.

Counsel for the men, members of the crew of the Pauline Friedrich, explained that their replies to the indictments were offered to keep them from voluntarily submitting to the jurisdiction of the court.

Coal Conferees Continue Talk

The truculent profile of John L. Lewis, right, seems to dominate this scene as bituminous mine operators and union workers continue their contract negotiations in New York. Work in the mines has ceased pending signing of an agreement. Left to right are John R. Steelman, federal labor conciliator; Ezra Van Horn, Cleveland coal operator and chairman of the joint conference; Charles O'Neil, operator's spokesman (standing) and Lewis, who is president of the C. I. O. United Mine Workers of America.

the company's alleged refusal to meet pay demands.

Picketing continued peaceful today as about a score of workers milled about the entrances to the plant. There was no attempt to keep salaried workers, including office employes, foremen, and some timekeepers, out of the building.

Most of the pickets today wore large red, white, and blue badges bearing the statement: "We want 10 cents an hour raise." Outside the plant pickets displayed placards saying, "We are on a work holiday" and "we want decent wages."

It was learned that some of the workers are asking a 10-cents-per-hour increase while others want a revised pay schedule which they said would restore to them a straight-pay week instead of the present plan which pays some of the workers for piece work.

End Near For O-B Controversy

A "work holiday" demonstration similar to the one in progress at the Humphryes Manufacturing company plant was expected to end today at the Ohio Brass company's insulator factory in Barberton.

Plant officials there said they expected about 250 workers who left their jobs to hold a protest demonstration yesterday to go back to their jobs today.

The workers, members of the CIO electrical workers' union, gathered at the Barberton industrial union hall and voted full power to their negotiating committee in contract dealings with company officials.

The firm had offered a five per cent pay raise, but the union officials balked because their demand for a closed shop was refused.

VICHY, France —(AP)— Rioting and street battles between police and natives at Beirut, in French-mandated Lebanon, were disclosed by the government today after appointment of Khaled Bey Azem to form a new Syrian government.

Reports called the demonstrations bread riots, and said police and native constabulary were unable to halt them, despite firing which killed two persons.

failed again today as CIO workers, who yesterday joined AFL men in a work stoppage at the American Car and Foundry company plant, refused to return to their jobs.

Carl W. Meier, executive committeeman of the CIO Steel Workers' Organizing Committee which claims 600 members, asserted the AFL union has shown "it is too weak" to negotiate properly with the company, employing 1,400.

The AFL called the stoppage yesterday because of what it contended was the firm's violation of a year's contract signed Jan. 20. Settlement terms 12 hours later provided the company will pay time and a half for overtime, recognize seniority rights and raise the wages of some workers.

Truce Prevails After Killings at Harlan

HARLAN, Ky. —(AP)— Peace prevailed today in Harlan county after a day of labor strife which cost four lives.

A survey showed none of the county's 43 mines operating and no picketing.

A 24-hour truce called by union leaders and mine operators, beginning late yesterday, followed the fatal shooting of four union miners and wounding of five others after a union work stoppage to await the outcome of negotiations for a new working contract.

None of seven men charged with murder in warrants issued by County Judge C. E. Ball after yesterday's slaying had been arrested early today.

Agrees President Should Speak Up

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Representative McCormack of Massachusetts, house Democratic leader, agreed with a questioner on the house floor today that it was "about time" for President Roosevelt to speak out on the defense strike situation.

The exchange came shortly after Stephen Early, White House secretary, told reporters that the president was "waiting and watching" the situation.

McCormack took the floor after criticism by Representatives Taber (R-N. Y.) and Cox (D-Ga.) of the administration's attitude toward the strikes.

"I'm satisfied that he (the president) will bear down—in a constitutional way," McCormack replied.

"Labor in general are not ingrates and when the president speaks, as I believe he will, labor will respond to his leadership."

"Doesn't the gentleman think it's about time for him to speak?" interrupted Representative Woodrum (D-Va.).

"Yes," McCormack replied, amid applause.

TELEKI ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

Suicide of Hungarian Premier Revealed; Cabinet Quits at Leader's Death.

Hungary's food and other supplies often aroused cabinet controversies.

He was know to the public as the "great tightrope walker," because Hungarians saw him in the role of a man attempting to keep balance with Germany, just short of giving in completely to Adolf Hitler.

In recent days he had been conferring day and night with army leaders and government officials concerning the Yugoslav situation.

Hungarian newspapers said that Teleki "met a tragic death" and that he had left a letter, "the contents of which are unknown."

(The Swiss telegraphic agency published a dispatch from Budapest stating that "Teleki, prime minister of Hungary, committed suicide."

("Before ending his life," the dispatch continued "he wrote a last letter in which he explained he no longer felt himself capable of fulfilling his difficult and unhappy task. Attempts to hide his suicide in Hungary have not succeeded. The death of Teleki has made a deep impression."

(A second dispatch from Budapest said, "Although no government communique has been published on the subject, it is no longer denied here that Teleki committed suicide.")

FDR SCOUTS CONVOY TALK

President Calls Suggestion 'Too Absurd' To Discuss at Present Time.

resolution pending which would prohibit the use of U. S. navy vessels for convoy duty and is seeking to force action on it by the senate foreign relations committee.

President Roosevelt's comment on the convoy question was reported to have been made during his conference with congressional leaders this week. He was asked a direct question, the legislator said, regarding the possibility of convoys to assure delivery of American lease-lend military equipment to ports in the European war zone.

The president, it was said, dismissed the matter brusquely with the remark that it was "too absurd" to consider at the moment.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate foreign relations committee said he had heard nothing to indicate that the administration was thinking of inaugurating convoys.

In George's opinion, the president would have the legal authority to order naval escorts for merchantmen to any port where the ships may go legally. The neutrality law, he pointed out, prohibits American shipping from entering the combat zones defined by presidential proclamation.

With the convoy question reportedly eliminated for the time being, there was speculation as to the nature of the "purely naval matter" which Mr. Roosevelt discussed late yesterday with Secretary of Navy Knox and Admiral Harold R. Stark.

The two navy officials stayed behind for the talk after the two-hour conference with the president, held with a cabinet council and military chiefs. Details of this conference were kept strictly secret.

VINING LISTS SALES RULES

Tells Audience How to Handle People During Second of Lecture Series.

phasizing the importance of the national defense program in selling.

One of the most important points of the course, according to Vining is the introduction of the customer to the sales person. "Mansfield shoppers must be taught that sales people are just like themselves and that good selling can be secured here," said Vining. "Good buying demands good selling. You need good selling to get your money's worth."

Officials of the Retail Merchants association, which is sponsoring the course, will begin arrangements for the sales contest to be held next week in connection with it. Buttons will be distributed today to sales persons attending the course. On the buttons will be the name and number of the sales persons to help customers identify them.

Thirty prizes will be awarded to sales persons and 30 for shoppers. Customers will write letters to the retail association on unusual sales occurrences. Both the sales persons recommended and the shoppers writing winning letters will be given prizes of $5 each. A total of $300 will be warded, according to Ray Calene, president.

Vining told sales persons to say "Good Morning" and smile, ask intelligent questions, not to classify customers, sell what they request, tell the whole story about the product and let the customer make up his own mind, not to push, to ask for the order, to remind the customer of related items, to earn the customer's money, and to say "Thank You," meaning it.

Within these ten rules, according to Vining, is the secret of good selling. He stated that we needed good selling to keep Mansfield shoppers from going to other nearby cities.

For the second time, a flustered woman received Vining's red suspenders which he passed out at the end of a lecture as a souvenir. He also distributed copies of his book, "Sam's Selling Slants."

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, APRIL 3, 1941.

There is good in everybody—but some folks are adepts at concealing it.

It appears that bombing planes were invented before people could be trusted with them.

To relieve traffic congestion, Washington's 160,000 federal employes go to work in "staggered groups"—some staggering in as late as 9:15.

Strike Violence Must Be Quelled

ONE of the purposes of the Constitution of the United States, as set forth in the preamble, is to "insure domestic tranquility."

Respect for law, and voluntary law observance, are among the primary requirements of self government and are necessary to preservation of the "rights" and privileges which a democracy accords all well-behaved citizens.

Acts of violence, either in attacks on other persons or in wilful destruction of property, mark an indefensible departure from rules of conduct prescribed for self governing people and argue against the principles of self government.

Such behavior, for instance, as is reported from the Allis-Chalmers strike scene in Milwaukee, might well be construed as evidence that the assailants of Governor Heil and law enforcement officers, cannot be safely entrusted with self government—being apparently unable to govern themselves.

In Wisconsin, as in other states, national guardsmen are absent on federal duty and authorities lack sufficient force to cope with the situation.

As a result of rioting, and associated dangers, the Allis-Chalmers plant has again been closed, following a few days of partial operation on vital defense contracts. The brief re-opening was on instructions from Defense Production Chief Knudsen and Navy Secretary Knox, who were overruled by Harold Christoffel, president of the striking CIO union.

Strike disorders in the Detroit area were an almost immediate outcropping of the CIO strike at Ford's River Rouge plant and after a number of persons had been injured Michigan's Governor Van Wagoner ordered the state police to restore order.

Ohio has thus far been fortunate in escaping strike disorders in connection with the present wave of labor disturbances—and it is hoped that this freedom from lawless conduct will continue.

Reviewing past experiences, however, it seems obvious that the legislature is no longer justified in its lackadaisical attitude toward enactment of a law to provide public protection during the absence of national guardsmen from the state. Two proposals are being considered—one to establish home guard units, for emergency service, and the other to increase the personnel of the state highway patrol and give patrolmen full police authority.

One or the other—or a combination of the two—seems advisable legislation at the earliest possible moment, rather than to await a possible emergency in which too-hasty action might be necessary.

Communist and Nazi Aspirations

WHATEVER may be the outcome of revived efforts to deport Harry Bridges, West Coast alien labor agitator and alleged Communist, the trial now in progress in San Francisco is bringing out further illuminating information regarding Communist activities and aspirations in the United States.

Whether CIO leadership is as closely linked with Russian Communism as indicated by testimony of Benjamin Gitlow, once prominently identified with the Communist party in the United States, is relatively unimportant at this stage.

What is, and has been, quite evident is that there has been a sufficient infiltration of Communist agitators and sympathizers into the ranks of organized labor to further the purposes of Moscow headquarters and work to the detriment of that vast majority of patriotic Americans who constitute the rank and file of the legitimate labor movement in this country.

It has also become quite clear that emissaries of Hitler have been promoting the Nazi cause in the United States, almost without hindrance until recent awakening to dangers involved.

All in all, it seems that a lively battle is being waged to determine whether, when "the American revolution" comes, the United States is to be taken over by the Communists or the Nazis.

Possibly it is not yet too late for Americans to express preference for the form of government upon which this nation was founded, and under which it has progressed rapidly for more than a century and a half. There may yet be time to save America for democracy instead of letting it fall victim of any alien ism.

In any event it appears that a determined effort along that line would be well worth while.

Municipal Court Work Grows

REQUEST for additional help in public offices has been so historically common as to cause all such appeals to fall under suspicion of merely being designed to provide another political job.

It seems, however, that in the matter of Municipal Judge Kalbfleisch's plea to city council for an additional deputy, because of rapidly increasing work in that office, there should be careful study of the situation, and favorable action in the event of actual need.

As presented by Judge Kalbfleisch, and as is also a matter of record, the work of municipal court has been greatly increased in scope in recent years and it is important to the city that none of this work be slighted on account of inadequate office personnel. If all present employes are competent, with each doing a full day's work and yet leaving some undone because of lack of time, it is quite likely that request for another deputy is entirely reasonable.

A recent public opinion poll shows President Roosevelt's popularity at "an all-time high"—which, as the once political-minded Jim Farley might say, seems to put a fourth term "in the bag."

The United States public health service says 90 per cent of all persons in America suffer from some form of foot trouble—but head trouble isn't so completely indexed.

It is interesting to note that a high school boy who can imitate the sounds made by dogs is embarking on a radio career.

'Dead End' Mothers

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ALL THIS FUSS about "Dead End Kids"—and high time there was. BUT HOW ABOUT "DEAD END" MOTHERS?

It seems to me that one problem yells as loudly for solution as the other.

As a social menace, I can see very little difference between the youngster who spends his afternoon smoking "snipes" down the alley and his mother, who does the same thing hanging over some bridge table. No, I'm not making an apology for young hoodlums. But why should we concentrate entirely upon young hoodlums and loafers? There are fully as many bad eggs wearing platinum fox as there are wearing jeans—and the cause and cure of both is identical.

What makes a "Dead End"? A street that stops going. What makes a Dead End Kid—or Mother? A life that stops going. The whole problem boils down to that; streets and lives were intended to circulate, to go some place, mean something fine and useful. They weren't meant to go stagnant, or run amuck, like so many coyote trails. And it's a Mother's job to keep young lives from running amuck. Which same they did—and all honor to them—forty years ago.

It wasn't easy. It wasn't fun. It was, often, extremely unpopular. But they "saw their job and done it"—and, although there were always rebellious kids, you never heard of a "juvenile crime wave." And you wouldn't be hearing of it now if the Mothers of America would stop being Girlish and Glamorous and get back on their jobs as their Mothers did before them.

Why shouldn't Junior hang around the juke joints if Mama herself believes that fun and excitement are the great things in life and treats the home as a temporary parking station?

WHY SHOULDN'T SISTER BELIEVE THAT A PERMANENT WAVE AND A DELICATESSEN SALAD ARE SUFFICIENT TO HOLD A MARRIAGE TOGETHER, IF SHE HAS SEEN MOM HANDING DAD THAT KIND OF A DEAL ALL HER LIFE?

I'm not saying that all, or even a large percentage of American mothers are such flops. But I do believe that the standards in many of our homes have grown so lax that they're as great a peril to national security as any foreign foe.

A woman does not have to drink, gamble or loaf to be a "Dead End" Mother. She can be a domestic model or pillar of the church, yet so limited and antiquated in her viewpoint that only a Dodo could respect her authority.

WORST OF ALL, SHE CAN BE SO LACKING IN GUMPTION THAT SHE DASN'T STAND UP TO HER CHILDREN AND SAY "NO!"

Which last weakness, I believe, tops all others in bringing about our present juvenile delinquency. We've grown afraid to tackle the selfishness, rebellion, and general rowdyism of our own brats! Far be it from me to advocate the old wood-shed, but there's a wide difference between using grandpaw's razor strop and giving Snooky-ookums every lollipop he craves, regardless of consequences. For there never yet was a real youngster who wouldn't get by with murder if he could—then despise you for letting him.

IF YOU CAN'T SAY "NO" IN YOUR OWN HOME, MOM, HOW CAN YOU EXPECT THE YOUNGSTERS TO SAY IT OUTSIDE? IF YOU'VE LET YOUR OWN LIFE BECOME A "DEAD END" WHY SHOULD YOU EXPECT WILLIE'S TO BE A BOULEVARD?

P. S.:—Am I a mother? I am, since 1904—and still going strong.

Doctor Answers Health Questions.

—By DR. CLENDENING

A. R.: "Is canned orange juice just as high in vitamin content as fresh? Does orange juice when squeezed at breakfast time and set in the ice box to be used at intervals during the day, the last being used at the evening meal, lose its vitamin content? If a large can of orange juice is opened and left in the icebox all day, does it lose its vitamin content?"

Answer — If orange juice is canned without being heated and the can vacuum sealed, it does not lose its vitamin content appreciably. The consumer should ask that the manufacturer state on the label whether the product contains Vitamin C and whether the seal of the Council on Foods of the American Medical Association is on the can. The Council found that all brands of canned orange juice they examined contained appreciable amounts of vitamins. The Council also says, "Fresh orange juice loses very little Vitamin C potency on standing in the refrigerator." Nor does canned orange juice lose any considerable amount for twenty-four hours after the can has been opened.

M. F. K.:—"A few months ago I was told that my blood pressure was a little high for my age, which is 23. Should I give up athletics? Also, can it be cured?"

Answer—You do not give the exact figures as to what your blood pressure is but I would be very skeptical of believing that there is anything serious about high blood pressure at the age of 23. It is possible it was taken on one occasion when you were nervous, and not repeated. I certainly should not give up athletics except on medical advice. I believe that time and nature will cure it.

Answer—Belching is common to many forms of indigestion. It may occur from ulcer of the stomach, nervousness or gall bladder inflammation—most likely the last named.

Two Billion Nickels.

A new and interesting yardstick by which the citizen, bewildered by all the talk of billions of dollars prevalent since the advent of the present administration, can visualize some of the enormous figures tossed about is provided by an announcement from the U. S. department of the mint.

This says that the two billionth five-cent piece was minted a few days ago. The revelation was made in connection with the seventy-fifth anniversary of the minting of the first nickel in 1866.

Since that date there have been four different types of five-cent pieces—first the shield design, then the liberty nickel, then the buffalo nickel and since 1938, the now-familiar Jefferson coin of which some 453 million have been minted.

It is a little sobering to face the fact that in 75 years only two billion five-cent pieces have been manufactured to supply the coinage needs of a nation that for eight years past has been piling up deficits of four to nine billions of dollars annually and has now a public debt in prospect which will top 65 billions.—Columbus Dispatch.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

May Anchor Scows In Mid-Ocean As Re-fueling Bases for Planes

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The navy has been making some careful studies of how to carry out Roosevelt's promise of a bridge of ships across the North Atlantic to carry supplies to England. One result is a unique plan for anchoring flat-bottomed scows or barges in mid-Atlantic to serve as refueling depots for airplanes.

The plan is not yet perfected, and still awaits higher-up approval. But here are details of the revolutionary idea.

British experience in the North Atlantic has shown that scouting-bombing planes are the most effective protection for merchant vessels. Planes can sight an undersea boat at a far greater distance than a surface vessel, then drop depth bombs on it.

Chief problem is the refueling of these planes. Expensive aircraft carriers, requiring three years to build, cannot be used as airplane bases in mid-Atlantic. They are too easy targets for submarines.

However, the flat-bottomed scow does not have sufficient depth in the water to be a target for a submarine torpedo. The scow has a draft of only three feet, compared with a 30-foot draft by a cruiser, and 35 feet by an aircraft carrier.

Furthermore, in the relatively storm-free summer months, flat-bottomed barges would experience little trouble from weather. They would be subject to attack from the air, but on the other hand each would be defended by its own scouting planes, and if it were sunk the cost of replacement would be insignificant.

Whether the barges and their accompanying planes would be constructed for use under the British flag, or whether the United States would risk its own planes that far at sea has not yet been determined. But it is known the navy has the scheme under consideration.

Brains, Not Money.

CLARENCE BUDINGTON KELLAND is at the top of his profession when it comes to magazine writing, but what he doesn't know about politics would fill the longest serial written.

Kelland, a super-Roosevelt hater, is Republican national committeeman from Arizona, where he lives on a model ranch. His efforts to spread the GOP gospel there have been something less than sensational, since Arizona still remains one of the strongest Roosevelt states in the country.

Last year, though, when polls showed the president leading in Arizona by a wide margin, Kelland adamantly insisted the state could be swung to Willkie. GOP campaign chiefs paid little attention to him, but Kelland had better luck with the candidate himself. Willkie went 400 miles out of his way to make a speech in Arizona.

Election results confirmed the judgment of the campaign chiefs, but Kelland wasn't satisfied. During the recent national committee meeting in Washington he postmortemed noisily to a luncheon group which included Mrs. Worthington Scranton of Scranton, Pa., veteran national committeewoman.

"Money was my problem," complained Kelland. "I could have swung Arizona to Willkie if I had $10,000 more to spend. But I couldn't get it, though I appealed many times to party leaders in other states."

"Well, we had plenty of money in Pennsylvania," said Mrs. Scranton, "and I am sure we would have been only too willing to send you some if we had known of your predicamen.. We helped other states. But, Mr. Kelland, I'm afraid I can't agree with you about Arizona."

Then, fixing the serial-writer with a critical eye, she added: "More than money was needed there."

Scattering Factories.

WEARY Westerners who have been dragging their maps around to army brass-hats and National Defense chiefs for months, trying to get new factories west of the Mississippi, view the new Plant Site Board with a wary eye. They're wondering if the new board really will do something about distributing defense industries, or whether it's just a foxy piece of window-dressing.

The Westerners heard Roosevelt promise that all sections of the country would share in the defense program, then watched the brass-hats cram factories into the overcrowded East. They have seen labor shortages, boom town headaches and mass worker migrations develop. Finally they have been tipped off that the Plant Site Board was set up to keep congress from kicking over the traces and creating its own locating committee.

So naturally they've skeptical. And the first meeting of the Plant Site Board increased their skepticism.

At this closed-door session, Donald Nelson, OPM purchasing chief who has crossed swords with the brass-hats more than once, presented a Defense Commission request that the board formally adopt a policy of scattering plants.

S. R. Fuller, big rayon manufacturer and chairman of the super Production Planning Board, demurred.

Rubber Stamp?

WHY do we have to adopt a policy?" Fuller asked. "All we're going to do is pass on army and navy recommendations."

"That wasn't my idea of the board's duties," drawled Clifford Townsend, OPM agricultural adviser. "It seems to me we'd be running out on congress and the president if we didn't take the bull by the horns and try to spread out defense work."

"Well now," cautioned Fuller, "I don't believe we can make any hard and fast rule on locating factories. In some cases it may be necessary to build near existing facilities."

"Why?"

"Because of a shortage in plant superintendents," replied Fuller gravely.

Towsend caught his breath, winked at Nelson, drawled: "It would seem to me that it might be a little simpler either to train new superintendents or have each one supervise two plants by telephone or airplane, than to force thousands of workers to migrate across the country to an already overcrowded community."

This reasoning, apparently, made sense to the other board members. Despite Fuller's protest, the policy proposed by Nelson of scattering plants was adopted. Also, Edwin Martin, crack young economist, was named as the board's research director.

Martin and his chief, Sidney Hillman, also favor dispersal of defense plants, but the Westerners, after months of disappointment, say that the Plant Site Board still has to prove it really can influence the brass-hats. Seeing, they say is believing.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Peter Freuchen is a Scandinavian giant with a wild mop of red beard, piercing, direct eyes, and a limp.

This limp is a part of his own Icelandic saga, for once in the Arctic, suffering from frost-bite, he cut off his own foot. His stature as an explorer is secure. His fame as an author is widespread, for he has written "Arctic Adventure," "Eskimo," and "Greenland," books that have sold well and have found their way into the cinema.

Coming out of a Times Square restaurant, I saw Freuchen climb out of a cab and move, fully a head taller than the crowd, for three blocks down Broadway, his peculiar gait making him a marked man in any crowd. A few people glanced curiously at him but paid no particular notice. Not a soul recognized him.

AT FIRST this seemed incredible, until I remembered that few New Yorkers recognize celebrities on the street. It isn't that they are blase. Probably it is because they never expect celebrities to be caught promenading and so fail to recognize them when they come on them unawares.

One afternoon before Macy's I noticed Lawrence Tibbett as he sat, hands across his knees, in an open car. He was trapped in a traffic jam for at least ten minutes and no one, not even the cop who finally unsnarled the tie-up and waved Tibbett on his way, recognized him.

Even the bare-headed Lindbergh escapes undue attention. As he left his wife's publishers, Harcourt-Brace, one rainy afternoon, I descended the elevator with him. He walked across Madison avenue, stood on the curb in front of the Ritz until the lights changed, and though hundreds of passersby could have reached out and touched him, none seemed aware that there stood the first man in all history to fly an airplane non-stop from New York to Paris.

THIS unawareness of greatness is confined chiefly to daytime crowds, who have places to go, probably, and things on their minds. At night, when the sidewalks, the foyers and lobbies are more largely populated by pleasure-seekers and celebrity-hunters, there is this difference: People on Broadway are on the lookout for big names, especially in the midtown area, whose side streets house the theaters and the cafes.

Even so, one must be adept at remembering features to recognize hurrying faces that are hidden by tall hats, cloaks and furs. I stood next to Joan Bennett not so long ago in a theater lobby and never would have recognized her in the crush if my cigaret hadn't brushed its fire against her gown and prompted me to apologize. (Apologizing is strictly old-fashioned and a hall-mark of the provincial. But, somehow, it's a habit that ten years in New York have failed to dint.) However, Miss Bennett on this occasion was very sweet. She accepted the apology with a brief little nod that meant she hadn't the least idea what I was talking about, but whatever it was it was okay.

A Farmer's Diary

Marking Time

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

SPRING is slow this year. We turn the calendar to April, and so far only four warm days have prepared the soil for plowing. Inland streams flow clear and shallow, like in early summer. Lush grass does not grow on the banks, and bushes are not in leaf. Even the marsh pussy willows and soft maple buds are only beginning to show bits of growth. The lilacs above the pond have widened bracks through which peep lines of early green.

To the casual eye, lawns and meadows have the same drab look they have in winter when the snow goes off. But when I pulled the last year's growth away, healthy crowns were there, from which many shoots had started. They are waiting, silently, patiently for the first warm days of rain and sun. Then, almost overnight, they will spring out to paint the hills and roadside a soft beautiful green.

I rolled over the half buried bottom rail of an old rail fence. White soft worms fell from the rotten wood. Ants were awake and active. A sluggish toad wriggled slowly from his winter home. Long white sprouts from a clump of aster roots were present. A tender pinkish stem of blackberry grew, ten inches long, close to the outer surface of the rail. I saw six dark brown fiberous cocoons, resembling those of the Junebug.

Along the creek banks, every morning a skim of jagged ice is seen. The marsh soil is frozen solid, and when I walk across it, it sounds hollow, as though there were a cavern underneath. But the smooth round ant hills, 18 inches high, were soft and spongy and their occupants were busy.

Larks, bluebirds, robins and purple martins ruffle their feathers in discouragement—with only an occasional warble. Lowlands are quiet. No frog has yet been tempted to try his song. All Nature is waiting, hoping, marking time.

Spring is slow this year.

SET RECORD

Clerk Reports 491 Cars Sold During March.

New automobile sales in Richland county set a four-year record last month when 491 new cars were sold, figures compiled by Miss Ruth Them, deputy clerk of courts in charge of motor registrations, showed today.

Forty new trucks were sold, more than in any month since April last year.

New car sales represent a gain of more than 40 per cent over sales last March and they were almost double the February sales this year. Estimated value of the new cars sold last month was more than $450,000.

Registration figures showed 957 new cars were sold during the first quarter of this year as compared to 841 for a similar period last year.

CHAPTER XVI

"We can't prove it," he reminded her kindly. "Our only chance to convict Karl of this, or anything else, is to be seemingly unsuspicious."

They were driving home now, through the wet streets of San Francisco. Wreaths shone from the windows of homes and apartments. Small Christmas trees sparkled. Next week—Christmas.

"Oh, Paul, I can't stand it!"

"Listen, honey," he said tenderly, "I don't think Sybil committed suicide."

"Then you think Karl is behind it?"

"I wouldn't be surprised."

"But where is Sybil? Has he?"

"As a matter of fact," Paul said thoughtfully, "I think Sybil is alive. Now this is pure theory, understand, but I think Karl is trying to put a scare into you. He's probably taken Sybil away somewhere, but I don't think he's really harmed her. He doesn't want to take that much of a chance."

"He did with Eric Storm...."

"That was different. Eric tried to double-cross him. Eric threatened to expose him, and apparently Eric had the goods on him. Karl was afraid of Eric, but Sybil knew nothing. How could she?"

"You really think she's all right?"

"Yes, I do. Karl may have had those clothes planted on the bridge to make it look like suicide and to explain Sybil's disappearance. It would also be a threat against you. But I have a feeling that Sybil is alive and no doubt Karl sooner or later will use this ace up his sleeve as a means of making you do something for him. Get the angle?"

The windshield wiper clicked methodically and the rain beat relentlessly against the roof of the car.

"You mean," Joan said slowly, "that Karl will someday tell me that Sybil is alive and threaten her life if I don't do as he asks?"

"That's the may I have it figured."

"As long as Sybil is alive, that's all that matters. Surely we can find out if we go on with Karl and he isn't suspicious"

"Good girl," Paul approved as they drove up before her apartment. "If we work together, I think we can beat Karl Miller at his own game. He's bound to make a slip and when he does we'll have all the evidence, not only about Sybil but his other activities. You'll stick it out, Joan?"

"Yes!" she cried with determination. "And I'll be all right from now on." She lifted her chin bravely.

"That's swell," Paul said with admiration as they entered the apartment. "You've got more nerve than any girl I ever saw."

"Thanks," Joan said, wanly stooping to light the fire. "I suppose you mean that as a compliment."

She did not see the tenderness that was in his eyes. When she turned back he was saying practically, "It's up to you to make Karl think that you believe the story about Sybil."

"I can do it," Joan said grimly. "I can do anything now. It's all for Sybil's sake. Paul, what do you suppose she meant in that note, 'something terrible',?"

"I can't answer that one," Paul admitted. "You're sure it was her handwriting?"

"Positive." And then, "Paul, why didn't the men at police headquarters know who you were?"

He laughed. "My dear girl, the reason they sent me out here was that I am not known by the local police. We have to work in absolute secrecy. I'm more or less on my own and must take the responsibility for my actions. If I were known even by the police in San Francisco it might leak out. We can't take any chances."

"Where is your real home?" Joan asked curiously.

"Brooklyn," Paul laughed. "I was born and raised there. Technically I work in Washington but I'm usually off on an assignment."

She glanced at the good-looking, clean-cut features, the kind brown eyes, the untuly, brown hair.

"And I was suspicious of you instead of Karl! I guess I'm not much of a detective."

"You were in love," Paul said. "That can explain almost anything."

"Love!" Joan repeated bitterly.

Swiftly he changed the subject. "I'd give a lot to find out just what it was that Eric knew."

"Was he really Karl's partner?" Joan inquired.

Paul shrugged. "Probably just a title. I don't know who actually put up the money but I am certain that Eric worked under Karl.

"And Karl works under some other person?"

"Right! And someone else who will bear watching is this Mrs Murdock who supposedly owns the beauty shop where Sybil worked . . ."

At that moment the doorbell rang.

Paul had scarcely finished speaking when the doorbell of the apartment rang. Joan and Paul exchanged glances.

"Karl!" Joan cried in alarm, but Paul shook his head.

"I don't think so," he said, going to the door.

A middle-aged woman, well-dressed, rather heavy-set, with dyed black hair and expressionless black eyes, stood waiting.

"May I see Miss Leland?" she inquired. "I am Mrs. Murdock."

Joan rose quickly from her place by the fire. Mrs. Murdock! Sybil's employer! And only a moment ago Paul had been saying that this woman would bear watching.

"Do come in," Paul said pleasantly, "I am Karl Miller's manager, Paul Sherman."

Mrs. Murdock nodded her head slightly. "Yes, I know."

"And this is Miss Leland, Sybil's sister."

The three of them sat down by the fire. "I was so sorry to hear of your sister's—unfortunate accident," Mrs. Murdock said delicately.

Joan looked at Paul. These had been Karl's words," unfortunate accident." But Paul seemed not to notice.

"I feel it my duty," Mrs. Murdock continued tonelessly, "to tell you certain facts. First, that I discharged Sybil two days ago."

"Discharged?" Joan repeated in astonishment. "But Sybil didn't tell me anything about it."

The older woman looked uncomfortable. "Her work was not entirely satisfactory. I was sorry but I had to let her go."

"Sybil was one of the best beauty operators in this city," Joan flared.

"Just a minute," Paul interrupted.

Mrs. Murdock adjusted her furs with the gesture of one who is doing her duty and finds it annoying. Her attitude irritated Joan. She did not trust this face, with its jet-black eyes and wide cheekbones. The woman was expensively dressed but there was something unpleasant about her. No wonder Sybil had not liked her. She had the same aloof expression as Karl; an expression of cynical amusement and assurance that she had the situation well in hand.

"Sybil," Mrs. Murdock went on, "was very upset. She told me she needed the money desperately."

"That isn't true," Joan snapped.

Mrs. Murdock shrugged "That is what she told me. When I told her that I was letting her go she became hysterical and threatened to do away with herself. I told this to the police when they called on me an hour ago. There can't be any question that it was suicide."

"Very kind of you to come to see Miss Leland She is upset naturally, but it's always better to know the truth." Paul's voice was smooth.

Joan did not look up. Better to let Paul handle this. She did not feel equal to keeping her temper with Mrs. Murdock, and not for one minute did she believe that Sybil had been discharged or that she threatened to take her own life Sybil would not do that.

Paul went to the door with Mrs. Murdock and watched her disappear down the hall. When he returned to the fireplace, he said, "Well, what do you think?"

"The whole thing's a lie," Joan insisted.

"It fits together too well," Paul admitted. "The truth is never that logical. This Murdock woman is undoubtedly involved with Karl."

"How can we prove it? Paul, we've got to do something! Sybil may be alive and in danger."

"We must have patience," Paul told her. "These things don't work out overnight and we can't afford to rush it."

They regarded each other gravely — earnest in their youth, desperate in their desire to solve this problem.

"The whole world's a mess," Paul said bitterly.

"We seem to be playing a losing game. We're so helpless."

Paul patted her hand. "Everything's going to be all right."

She had never liked him better than she did at this moment, standing tall and grave before her, with tenderness and understanding in his brown eyes. Paul could be trusted. But even at that moment the thought of Karl Miller flashed into her mind. The subtle fascination of Karl, the Karl she had loved, still held her prisoner. Joan wondered how she could ever break the spell of that dream which had enchanted her for so long; that dream which was now only a memory and yet still enslaved her. Paul was kind, good. Karl was cruel, yet there was power even in his cruelty.

Seeing the swiftly changing emotion in her eyes, Paul said, "You'll get over it, Joan. But it won't be easy."

"I hate him and everything he stands for"

"Sure I know."

She bit her lips and turned away, ashamed that he could read her heart so well, ashamed to admit her own defeat . . . She did not love Karl Miller, the spy, the murderer of Eric, but in her heart was still that other Karl, tender, adoring, murmuring "liebchen." She told herself that this man had never really existed. He had been a creature of her own imagination. Yet in a few days she could not forget. She could not completely destroy this image shattered as it was.

Paul took her hand gently. "It will work out. It must."

"I know." His understanding broke down her last defense. She hid her face against his shoulder and wept. "But I'll never get over it. Never."

"I'd like to break his rotten neck," Paul said but Joan did not hear him. She was comforted by this sympathetic shoulder, by this kind reception of her tears. She needed someone to talk to so much, now that Sybil was gone.

The days of December dragged to a close. Christmas passed. Paul spent the day with Joan, taking her to dinner at a quiet restaurant. They spoke little. Paul attempted to cheer her but his efforts produced little effect.

"Karl said we wouldn't be needed at the club New Year's eve. Would you like to go out?"

Joan glanced about the brilliantly decorated restaurant, the shining Christmas tree and light bedecked wreaths in the windows. "It doesn't seem fair for us to celebrate while we don't know what's happened to Sybil."

"I don't think Sybil would want you to worry. Let's try it anyway. Shall we, Joan?"

"We'll try . . ." she promised.

New Year's eve arrived, clear and cold. Joan wore a green satin dress to match her eyes. She had intended to wear the black velvet—the dress she had worn so many times with Karl—but the sight of it brought back poignant memories and tearfully she put it away in the back of her closet, and changed it for the green one that Karl had never seen.

Paul brought her gardenias, waxy pale and fragrant. "You look very lovely, Joan," he told her and she was glad that he had not said "beautiful" . . . Karl always said that.

She made a valiant attempt to enjoy herself, and though the evening proved to be not particularly gay, Joan found Paul entertaining.

"I've been watching Mrs. Murdock's beauty shop," he reported, "and I'm convinced there's something funny about it. I've seen her coming and going from the shop as late as two o'clock in the morning. Once I thought I saw Karl with her."

"How can you get proof?"

"You are going to have your hair fixed there next week," Paul informed her. "Look the place over and if you see anything suspicious, tell me. You might even try to see Mrs. Murdock in her private office. If there's anything going on, you may find evidence there. Try to be pleasant with her. You probably put her on her guard the last time you saw her."

Joan leaned closer to hear him. The laughing, screaming crowd all around them made conversation difficult. A spray of confetti fell across Joan's shoulder. The blare of trumpets droned in their ears.

Paul smiled. "Let's dance."

Holding her close, he guided her through the mob. It was hard to dance in the crowd but Joan found the happiness of others infectious. It was difficult to be down hearted in the midst of this laughing throng.

"Life at this moment isn't so bad, is it?" Paul whispered.

"It doesn't seem so . . . if it weren't for Sybil."

"I'm sure she's alive," Paul comforted.

"It's almost the New Year."

"Any resolutions?" Paul asked, smiling.

"Not one, except maybe never to fall in love again."

"So long as you don't give up your friends."

She smiled at him. "You're the best friend I have, Paul. In fact, you are the only one I have right now."

"I'm glad I haven't any competition."

They laughed and suddenly the lights were dimmed, the bells pealed.

"Happy New Year!" Paul cried and he held her hands tightly in his, but he did not kiss her.

The orchestra started to play, "Auld Lang Syne." With hands clasped, Joan and Paul joined in the singing.

"It's good-bye to the past," Joan thought. "Good-bye to Karl and all the things that such a little while ago were important . . ."

And then she saw Karl Miller, handsome, smiling Karl. And he was not alone. A girl clung to his arm, a girl so freshly lovely, so heartbreakingly young that sympathy swept through Joan's heart.

"Look!" she said to Paul. "Karl has a new girl . . ."

As Paul's eyes followed hers, his face grew white.

CITY COUNCIL AT BUCYRUS REVISES POLICE PAY SCHEDULE

BUCYRUS—City council Tuesday night adopted an ordinance providing for two new policemen and prosecution of criminal cases under city ordinance instead of state law, in order to keep fines and costs in the city.

The ordinance also provides a $20 a month pay raise for Police Chief Arthur Stuckert, who, through the change in prosecution, loses considerable fees. The chief is to receive $2,100 a year.

It is expected that the amounts collected by the city for fines and costs will over a period of a year make up the difference in cost of operating the department.

The ordinance provides that all policemen will, after May 1, be put on an 8-hour day instead of the old 12-hour system, which is still in use. They will get one day vacation a week, 10 day vacations annually and will be allowed 15 days pay a year for illness.

It further provides that the captain of police is to receive $1,740; identification officer, $1,740 and the six policemen, $1,380 for the first year, $1,500 for the second year and $1,600 the third year of service.

Water Works Superintendent A. J. Keplinger reported to council that his department has collected $5,828.03 in delinquent water rentals since January 1, 1940, $5,029.27 of which was collected in 1940 and the remainder since last January 1.

Current uncollected bills total $122.43, according to the report, which represents a loss of less than one-fourth of one per cent.

Ordinance was passed establishing the grades on South Walnut street and Williams street near the site of the new General Electric plant with a view of building new streets to lead to the new factory, work on which is scheduled to begin in a month.

Service Director Fred Judd reported that work on Bucyrus' swimming pool, a WPA project, is scheduled to begin April 21. He also reported that the WPA has promised that workmen being used on the project will be transferred from the pool to South Walnut street, where road work will be under way at the same time in order to facilitate both projects.

Shelby Physicians Awarded City Business.

SHELBY—Two physicians, Dr. John F. McHugh and Dr. L. E. Price, have been named as city physicians.

The physicians jointly submitted a bid of $125 per month for the post. Either one can be called when the city needs a physician, officials said.

Only one other bid was entered for the post. Dr. E. L. Jackson submitted a bid of $125 a month.

This is the same amount that had been paid under the old contract awarded to Dr. J. A. Ellery, who failed to submit a bid this year.

NEW IDEA

Buffalo Bank To Offer 'Drive In' Plan.

BUFFALO, N Y —(U P)—A novel "drive-in" arrangement for motorist-patrons who encounter difficulty in finding parking space is included in construction plans of a Buffalo bank.

The new automobile service, only one of its kind in this part of the country, will be installed at a branch office located at one of the city's busiest intersections.

It consists of a teller's window opening on a driveway alongside the bank, with the window so constructed that bank business can be transacted without the customer leaving his car The driveway will run from one sreet to another at the rear of the bank on a one-way basis to avoid traffic jams.

Victor Holden, bank president, said the window will be made of bullet-proof glass with a safety device similar to that of a night depository, and will be controlled by a teller with working quarters inside the building. A two-way microphone will permit conversation.

FIND EVIDENCE

SANDUSKY, O —(U P)—New information on the activities of the Confederate prisoners kept on Johnson's Island during the Civil war has been uncovered to support the contention that the treatment accorded them was neither inhumane nor cruel

Copies of letters written by prisoners and photographs and copies of theatrical and musical programs presented for their enjoyment are in the hands of the Sandusky Public library. The originals of the play-programs are held by the North Carolina Historical commission in Raleigh.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.
Low blood count oft times may mean you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Oh! Poor Lil!" I exclaimed. "Does she know Harry's going down again into that—"

For we both knew that if Harry Underwood carried out his plan to go back into the underworld in which he had been so bizarre a figure when he was secretly in the employ of the government, his life almost certainly would be forfeited.

The sorry remnants of the gang whose plotting he had broken up, and whose leaders he had sent to death and life imprisonment, were impotent to do any harm to the government. But they still were filled with venom against the memory of the man, who, according to their code had betrayed them. They had believed him dead since the night they saw him fall in the field outside our farm home in Sag Harbor, for he had vanished from the life and identity he had carefully built up, and they never had discovered that the recreant husband Lillian had nursed back to life and learned to love in the process, was their traitor leader, as they considered him.

If he should reappear again, searching for Marion, I did not believe, nor did Lillian, that any disguise he might adopt could keep those former followers from recognizing him. Nor did we hope that any power on earth could prevent their reaching Harry with death—perhaps torture—certainly if they had time—because he was determined to play a lone hand in his desperate search for clues to his beloved step-daughter's disappearance.

I felt as if I had traveled a million miles into the past when I heard Dicky's voice answering the question I had put to him.

"She doesn't know certainly as yet," he said, "although she suspects very strongly. But Dad seems to be pretty certain that Harry will break the news to her tomorrow, and wants you to be there when he does it."

"You mean Harry told Father that?" I asked.

"Yes, he did," my husband answered.

"Is there any reason why we can't talk to Harry tonight?" I asked.

"Plenty," Dicky retorted. "Dad wants the telephoning kept to a minimum. He has to talk to Harry again tonight, anyway, and he said he would tell him that you would be at their apartment tomorrow morning early."

"I shall be there as soon as I think Miss Whitlock is up," I said determinedly, "and she rises very early."

"I don't care if you get there before the milkman," Dicky said, "just so you don't go until you've had a few hours' sleep."

"I'll have those," I told him, "and I'll also sleep on the train."

"Like the hot place you will," my husband retorted. "You may be able to sleep after talking to Mary, but not a wink will you get until you've given her Marion's letter and found out what she makes of it."

I knew he was right, but I only put a nervous question.

"Have we done all the telephoning we should?" I asked.

"Absolutely," my husband said, slipping his hand under my elbow, and walking with me toward the door of the drugstore. He put me into the car with decorous courtesy, but when he had climbed in beside me, he slid a comforting arm around me.

"Don't let it get you down, Sweet," he said tenderly. "You've been such a brick so far, and you know how sorely Lillian will need your strength tomorrow."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

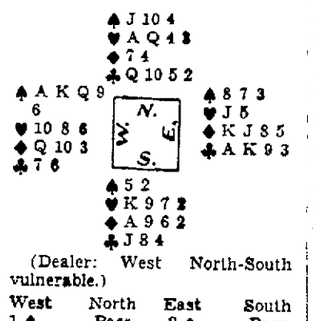
"The Authority on Authorities"

GET YOUR OWN RUFFS

Many players make it almost a matter of habit to lead trumps whenever they see a short suit in the dummy which the declarer can ruff. There is no use in doing this if the dummy contains enough trumps to do any necessary ruffing of what ever losers the declarer has in the suit, enough even if he has to waste some on trump leads. In such a spot, it is better to look around for other chances to take tricks of your own, or in your partner's hand, perhaps by ruffs on your own side.



(Dealer: West North-South vulnerable.)

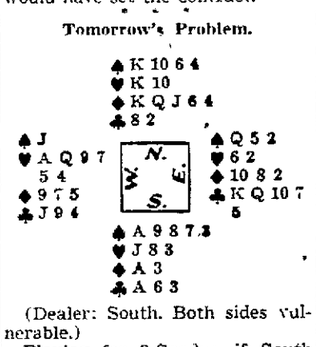
West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

After North led his club 2 to the dummy's K and the heart J was returned to the 8, North played his Q and decided at once that his job was to prevent the ruffing of hearts which the declarer was plainly seeking. So his rule in such cases was followed—to lead a trump. He did his J, which West won with the Q. The heart 10 came next, North winning it with his A and promptly firing back his spade 2 to the A. The declarer then led the heart 6 and ruffed it with the spade 7. He could now lose nothing more except to the diamond A, so made his contract.

North could have figured easily that, if West had held four hearts, he very likely would have bid them on the second round instead of rebidding spades, and hence had probably only three. Consequently West could not be seeking more than one heart ruff, which could not be prevented by the couple of trump leads possible for North to make.

If North had studied further, he would have seen a chance for a diamond ruff of his own. After winning the second trick, he should have led his diamond 7. South would have played his 9 to retain his A for an entry. When West then led a second heart to North's A, he could have returned his diamond 4 to the A, and South's return would have been ruffed by North for the trick that would have set the contract.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Playing for 3-Spades, if South wins the club J with the A and then drops the spade J with the K, why is it sounder play for him to come up with his spade A on the third trick in preference to finessing?

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, April 4.

A progressive and expansive day is the augury based on very interesting mutual and lunar aspects. While the sounder and more common place affairs of daily living may be under prospect of reward and enduring growth yet things of the higher life and thought are under unusual promise for fruition and keen gratification. It may be in high cultural or professional expression, with full acclaim from public or private sources.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a year of much growth, expansion, munificence and as well the enhancement of the real values of both a human and spiritual pattern of living. Labor and industry should find their substantial rewards and the higher expression of mental and emotional elements reach rich fulfillments. The professional and artistic creative faculties gain recognition both public and private, while mystical or romantic urges may be enriched by subtle gratifications.

A child born on this day should have many sterling and enduring traits of character although having rich endowments of cultural, mystical, artistic faculty of unusual forms. It may shine in a public profession.

Begin Hunt for Submachine Gun Bandits

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

(A compendium of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If you find in them any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead — you've probably guessed right!)

You Can't Print That!

DORIS, today, is a live wire—professionally speaking. Her swing singing is the joy of the juke box jivers, and when she turns on the sentiment in a throbbing ballad even the musicians in her company feel like applauding. Recently she sang her songs on Broadway for the neat sum of $1,250 a week.

What makes Doris happiest about her success is the fact that she showed George, a famous bandleader, that she really could make the grade. George hurt Doris very deeply about seven years ago, and the scar has never healed.

In those days, Doris was newly arrived from Europe, and getting jobs was no easy task. When George hired her at $125 a week to vocalize with his crew, Doris was wild with happiness.

After six months of what she thought was great success—she stopped shows wherever the band went—George suddenly fired her, and for no apparent reason. Doris was dazed.

She thought and thought and finally figured it out that he must have fired her because he felt, audience reaction to the contrary, that she had no talent.

She's thought that ever since.

So now she's pretty triumphant over her success. But her triumph would be bitter if she ever guessed the real reason why George gave her walking papers—and maybe, when she reads this, she'll guess who the heroine of the story is.

You see, George is a hardboiled fellow, but he is exceedingly soft-hearted about families and friends, and loyalties. Now, all the time Doris was working for him, she kept pleading for huge salary advances, explaining: "My poor mother in Europe . . . she isn't well. . . . I've got to cable her the money at once."

George fell for it, and George always came through—until one morning he got a letter with a foreign stamp on it and opened it to read:

"I've heard that my daughter Doris is working for you. Please write and let me know if this is true, and if she is well. I'm frantic with worry — and I haven't heard from her in a year!"

But you can't print that. Even today one of Doris' best numbers is a song about her mother.

When the screen first became articulate, it lured many a Broadway name to Hollywood, and some were lucky and hit the jackpot and some were unlucky and bit the dust. Among the unfortunate latter group was Bob, a lad who was photogenic and a good actor, but couldn't survive a run of mediocre pictures.

He didn't say die easily, though. When he knew he was finished in Hollywood, he decided the only thing to do was to make good on Broadway all over again and convince the flicker moguls that he was a great talent that had never been properly presented.

After a lot of trying, he got his second Broadway "break" through the great Richards, one of Broadway's finest producers.

But fate was up to tricks. When the show opened, Bob was the only weak spot in an otherwise terrific hit. It wasn't his fault—and it wasn't Richards' either. It was just that the role and the performer didn't quite click.

Richards summoned Bob to his office. "I know you have a run-of-the-play contract," he said, "but you're doing the show a lot of harm and you're not doing yourself any good. Let's make a fair settlement and chalk up the experience to profit and loss."

Ordinarily Bob is a pretty reasonable person, but his pride got the better of him. He had counted so strongly on this Broadway comeback, and the future looked so dismal to him at the moment that he refused to be a good loser. He held up Richards for a tremendous cash settlement and tossed in some very unpleasant publicity for good measure.

Time elapsed . . . and suddenly from out of nowhere Bob got an offer to sign a contract with one of Hollywood's major studios. The heads of that outfit saw him as a potential star, and made ambitious plans for him.

Then, overnight, the studio suffered a tremendous shakeup. The power that be hired a new producer to put new life into the company's flickers.

The new producer was a big shot from Broadway, whose shows never missed—Richards.

One of the first things Richards did after he was installed in his office was to summon Bob.

"You were a heel with me, Bob," he told the actor sadly, "and now, although I try never to be a heel, I can't bring myself to treat you right. I think it's only fair to warn you that while you're under contract here I'll see to it that you don't get good parts, and when your contract is up—you're out. Otherwise, it's nice seeing you."

But you can't print that. The tale does neither of them any credit, and they're really both nice fellows who just took turns being temporary heels.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Another "Roberta" alumnus is in the movies, and I wonder if any other musical comedy has made so large a contribution to the screen lists.

Ray Middleton is the newcomer, playing in "Lady From New Orleans." Middleton was "Roberta's" leading man back in 1933 when smoke first got in your eyes. The first shall be last, for a fact. Fred MacMurray was in "Roberta," merely a member of the band. Others were Bob Hope, then a mildly known comic; George Murphy, just a pretty good hoofer; and Lyda Roberti, who died before she could make any real impression in the movies.

ROBBIN COONS

Middleton is a tall, studious fellow of 32 who looks like a young Abe Lincoln on the hoof. The resemblance may have cast him for that "Honest Abe" air series he used to do, but his first ambition was centered on grand opera—which he now considers stuffy, moribund, and pretty much a bore. He'd rather be in pictures. He has sung with the Chicago Opera company.

But while Ray brushed up on horses and buckboards, the budget on the picture grew and grew and a movie name was ordered—Joel McCrea. Lloyd made a $30,000 test of Middleton, with sets and trimmings, for an operetta version of "If I Were King." But operettas were being vetoed, and they made it straight—with Ronald Coleman. Middleton went east, feeling pretty low about matters but not sour on Hollywood. What he'd seen here fascinated him and when Republic invited him to play in a movie he came right back.

So the operatic baritone played the role of a country lawyer in "Gangs of Chicago." Did he sing? Why, you know Hollywood better than that, don't you? Will he sing in the new one? Mebbe.

HOUSE PASSES MAHONEY BILL BY BIG MARGIN

Measure to Legalize Medical Service Associations Goes to Senate.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The highly controversial Mahoney bill, which would legalize the establishment of medical service associations in Ohio, moved to the senate today, where even more bitter debate than was experienced in the house was anticipated in the closing weeks of the 94th general assembly.

With the staunch backing of the Ohio State Medical association and medical associations in more than 80 of the state's 88 counties, the bill was passed overwhelmingly by the house, 110-8, despite last minute opposition by the Ohio CIO and the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

Under terms of the measure, sponsored by Rep. Margaret A. Mahoney, (R. Cuyahoga), non-profit organizations approved by the state superintendent of insurance would be licensed to operate subscription plans, which would entitle participants to medical services for themselves or their families. Subscribers could choose their physician from the entire list of participating physicians.

However, at least 51 per cent of the physcians in the territory covered by the organization would have to participate before the plan could be licensed.

In Michigan, where a somewhat similar plan is operating, premiums are said to average $2 monthly for an individual, $3.50 for man and wife, and $4.50 for families with children under 19 years of age. The Ohio measure would cover only families with incomes of less than $2,400, or individuals with incomes less than $1,800.

Farm Bureau and CIO opposition was ignored as the house rushed through the measure, although Ted Silvey, state CIO secretary, branded the measure as "a company union type of program."

QUAIL CAN GO ON WHISTLING, HE'S STILL SONGBIRD IN OHIO

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The Bob White quail can whistle triumphantly today because his friends are still all-powerful in the Ohio legislature.

For another biennium at least Bob White will remain on the Ohio songbird list, where he has nestled for 25 years, safe from hunters' guns.

A bill to legalize quail shooting on Nov. 15, 1943, after a state program of propagation, was killed by the house of representatives conservation committee last night.

A great cheer went up from the bird's supporters, who crowded the house chamber, when Chairman Jack Easton (R., Lake) dramatically broke a tie and made the vote 11 to 10 against the bill.

Earlier, representatives of bird and nature clubs, women's organizations, farmers and school children had applauded when Mrs. Joe L. Kinder of Lancaster declared:

"The sportsmen should be ashamed to demand the six ounces of flesh that make up the Bob White."

The opponents contended that removal of the quail from the songbird list would result in its extermination.

The League of Ohio Sportsmen, spearhead of the shoot-quail movement, asserted Ohio was the only state which classed Bob White as a songbird.

With the quail bill out of the way, the house today took up an appropriation of $618,500 for the care of insane persons unable to find room in state institutions.

The body was taken to the Finefrock Funeral home where services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. Rev. James Ellington, former pastor of the Pleasant Valley Baptist church, will officiate. Burial will be in Windsor cemetery.

"This century plant blooms every century, doesn't it, Miss Pritchard?"

The county's selective service boards today for the first time in several weeks were all "caught up with their calls for men and still had a waiting list of nearly 150 eligible selectees. That many men have passed their physical examinations and are ready to go to the Fort Hayes induction station when the next call is received. The three boards were being swamped with calls from men ready to leave who want to know how much longer they will have at home. The board clerks, however, could offer no information because they don't know themselves when the next call will come.

POLICE TRAIL TRIO WHO GOT CASH, BONDS

Robbers Tie Firm Founder and Hired Man To Chairs, Then Loot House.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Deputy sheriffs and police today began a search for three bandits with a submachine gun who invaded the secluded residence of Fred A. Wirthman, founder of the Columbus Buggy Parts company, and robbed him of nearly $500 in cash and $1,500 in government bonds.

The bandits tied Wirthman and a hired man, Eber Pendleton, to chairs in the kitchen and then methodically ransacked the large house which is located on the outskirts of the city. The leader of the bandits wore a black mask over the lower part of his face.

One of the men stood guard with the submachine gun over his bound victims while his fellows went through the rooms.

A shotgun which the robbers carried from the house as part of their loot was found this morning on a roadside north of the city. It was turned over to police to be examined for fingerprints.

The robbers, after completing their work, had nearly an hour's start before authorities were notified of the robbery. They took the precaution to cut telephone wires from the house.

Wirthman worked himself free after their departure and then released his employe before he left the house and ran to telephone the authorities.

The conservancy district's petition asked the court to determine the value of the property which is in the Charles Mill conservancy area in eastern Richland county.

Hamel, 50, a salesman of Maywood, Ill., was found dead today in his room in a Toledo hotel under such circumstances as to cause the coroner to order a thorough investigation by the Toledo homicide squad.

The flight of a woman, who was registered with the man as his wife, the receipt of a mysterious telegram by the hotel night clerk from Elkhart, Ind., requesting him to go to the room occupied by "Batson," resulted in the discovery of the body. A whitish fluid found in a water glass in the room will be analyzed.

Board Withdraws County Help On Two WPA Projects

Richland county commissioners today had withdrawn their sponsorship of a WPA historical records and real property inventory project which has been in progress in the county for several months. The project, it was understood, has already been halted.

Commissioners also voted to discontinue the household aid projects July 1. It has been operated for two or three years at headquarters on East Second street.

The projects have provided jobs for only a few persons and with more jobs available now in private industry, commissioners said there was no need to continue them.

They said, however, they will continue to finance the WPA sewing project at relief headquarters and the county-wide road and bridge project which is expected to provide jobs for the county's unemployed this summer.

National Defense Changes Reader Demand.

PITTSBURGH (U.P.)— The Carnegie library here is feeling repercussions of the national defense production program, Ralph Munn, library director, has announced.

Munn reported a heavy demand for technical and vocational books needed by men and women preparing themselves for skilled jobs in defense industries.

Especially in demand, he said, are books on airplane engines, blueprint readings, electricity, machine shop practice and pattern making.

The increased demand on technical resources has forced curtailment of book purchases in other fields, the library director declared. The library recently diverted part of its book funds to purchase copies of almost 500 of the latest technical volumes, but reports there is still a waiting list for most of the copies.

Guest of U. S.

This Danish sailor, K. A. Peterson, holds onto his cat after being taken into custody by the Coast Guard in Baltimore as the U. S. seized all Axis and Danish ships in American waters. The sailors face deportation proceedings, which probably means they will be interned, since deportation is almost impossible at this time.

PUPILS COMPETE

Mansfielders Enter Competition In Radio-Drama Contest.

Pupils of Mansfield Senior high school are planning to compete in a radio-drama writing contest sponsored by Cleveland's radio station WTAM. The topic of the contest, which closes April 25, is Biblical.

Pupils who are now writing the radio-drama are, Mary Beer, David Talbott, and Charles Palmer. "Fire of Peace," a dramatization of the life of Christ, is the name of their play.

Canada to Use Old Auto Tags In War Metals

HAMILTON, Ont.—(UP)—Motor license plates are unpretentious objects, but, when members of the Red Cross salvage campaign learned that some 20 tons of steel is added to the pile of discarded plates each year, they decided to do something about it.

An appeal has been made to Hamilton citizens to save their plates for collection, instead of leaving them with other plates hoarded over the years.

It is pointed out that the steel could be used in the manufacture of vital war materials. Thirty-seven thousand plates are issued in Hamilton each year and the total for all Canada is somewhere in the neighborhood of 1,500,000—or about 1,000 tons in weight.

C. W. Kirkpatrick, secretary of the Hamilton Auto club, offered the Red Cross his fullest co-operation and said: "There is no recall system used for old license plates, but those we do get are sent to the furnaces." He said that aside from the 37,000 sets issued yearly, there must be many more lying discarded in garages.

ST. LOUIS —(UP)— The Egyptian motif appears to have little place in modern architecture. A swank residential court here was built with four large pillars at the entrance.

But the pillars unfortunately looked less like the Egyptian temple posts than milk bottles. So Gurney court quickly became "Milk Bottle Row" to friends of people who lived there.

Tenants complained and the pillars were removed.

WAVE FOR COLDS

LONDON—(UP)—Short-wave radio treatment for colds has proved effective in 75 per cent of the 1,000 cases treated at a northwest of England factory. The men who developed the treatment would like to see short-wave apparatus in every big factory and air-raid shelter this winter.

NEW CLASS

Navy Accepts Enlistments In Hospital Ratings.

Enlistments in the U. S. Naval Reserve are now being accepted in hospital ratings, according to W. G. Cox, chief petty officer in charge of the Mansfield recruiting station in the postoffice.

Enlistments are limited to graduate male nurses, graduate or registered pharmacists, hospital orderlies, qualified medical technicians or men who have had previous military training in the medical corps, according to Cox.

Men who have had experience equivalent to a Junior Red Cross First Aid course are eligible for enlistment in the rating of hospital apprentice, first class, Cox said.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

You'll go a long way this balmy spring season before you'll find a happier man than Al Fendrick as the Madison High mentor puts his Rams through their spring football training.

A bit of necessary disciplining caused an embarrassing situation last fall for Al and his Rams. It wrecked the team and didn't make the supporters of Madison football any too happy.

That's an old story now, and everyone at Madison seems willing to forget it. But that isn't what makes Al happy. It's the way his boys have been working in their first week of spring drills.

"I've never seen better spirit in a Madison football squad," he beams.

Fendrick took a long chance last fall when he placed his coaching future on the line in an effort to build character first and football teams second.

But the school stuck with him and, what's more important, Al won the full support of his boys. They showed that by their "never say uncle" type of play in the county basketball tournament.

* * *

You know that coach just isn't kidding

Who builds character BEFORE he's skidding.

"We've got something now out here at Madison," Fendrick enthuses. "It's the newest, and cheapest, and best blocking machine on the market. The idea was brought to Ohio by the new assistant coach at Akron university, who picked it up from the grid pros at Boston.

"And it's nothing but the trussed up inner tube of a giant truck tire.

"You can tell from the way the boys land whether they're hitting that thing right or not. And they can tell when they hit it wrong. They bounce right back on their bounce absorbers."

John Burns, manager of the Mansfield Athletic Supplies basketball club has just received a leter from Dave Query, manager of the Willard tournament, complimenting him on the conduct of his club and enclosing a gold watch charm for Al Stickler, named on the all-tournament team although he played in only one game.

"It wasn't Al's fault we didn't win," said Burns. "The big center we borrowed from Blue Goose Sohioans scored 12 points and really controlled the ball under both hoops. At one time they put three men on him, but that didn't bother "Stretch"—not too much."

Burns has just left Mansfield General hospital after a nose operation. And I find on further check at the Glessner avenue institution that Coach Merrill Hall of Butler has been a patient there since March 17, and his condition is satisfactory and improved. WHY DOESN'T SOMEBODY TELL ME THESE THINGS?

A baseball fan who "must know by Friday" writes in to learn who was the "Peerless Leader."

That would be Frank Chance who piloted the Chicago Cubs to National league championships in 1906-7-8, and to world series titles the last two years. And who was on the tail-end of that Tinker to Evers to Chance combination.

(Note to Baseball Fan and all other letter writers: Sign your name. If you don't want the name used, let me know, but sign it. All future unsigned letters will be "placed on file" in the waste basket.)

NAMED MANAGER

YOUNGSTOWN —(AP)— Joseph E. Bilgere has been named manager of the Youngstown Browns of the Mid-Atlantic baseball league for the coming season. Bilgere, infielder for the San Antonio club of the Texas league since 1934, succeeds Rod Wilfong and will play shortstop for the Browns.

SWITCHES ORDER

EL CENTRO, Calif.—(AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes is pondering a Chicago White Sox lineup change that would move Luke Appling, a .342 hitter last year, to the No. 2 spot. His theory is that Appling is a shortfield hitter and doesn't drive in many runs but gets on base often and might score a lot.

CARDS CUT DOWN

COLUMBUS, Ga.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals now have their squad boiled down to opening day size. This leaves half a dozen more cuts to be made before May 15 when the 25-player limit goes into effect.

Bengals Hope They Look Bad

Point To 1940 Showing as Good Luck Sign.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

LAKELAND, Fla. —(U.P.)— The only gang of ball players in Florida, or anywhere else for that matter, who hope and pray they look lousy are the Detroit Tigers. Any sports writer who'll pick the Tigers to finish fifth is welcomed and feted in the Detroit camp.

Buck Newsom, Hank Greenberg and company remember how terrible they were last spring and how the sports scribes wrote them right out of the race and into fifth place. Then the Tigers exploded in everyone's face and won the flag. Well, around here they are all hoping lightning will strike twice in the same place.

The fate of the Tigers may be wrapped up in Hank Greenberg's draft number. If he goes (and nobody knows what may happen), then the Tigers may fall upon evil days.

The main change in the Tigers is Manager Del Baker's plan to play Eric McNair, rescued from baseball's backwash during the winter. McNair hit only .227 with the White Sox last season and was through with that club. Desperate for infielders, the Tigers signed him and now Baker says he'll be Detroit's shortstop.

Rudy York at first, Charlie Gehringer at second and Pinky Higgins at third round out the infield.

Counting Greenberg on hand and playing left, the rest of the outfield will be Barney McCosky, a tremendous ball player, in center, and either Tuck Stainback or Bruce Campbell in right.

The first line of pitchers include Buck (Ol' Bobo Newsom, Schoolboy Rowe, Tommy Bridges, Johnny Gorsica, Hal Newhouser and Floyd Giebell, the kid who beat Bob Feller in the deciding game last September.

Birdie Tebbetts and Billy Sullivan will do the bulk of the catching. Ed Parsons, who has just recovered from a broken finger, will be the No. 3 backstop.

Little Liked for Masters' Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga.—(AP)—A broad-shouldered gent with an infectious grin—U. S. Open Champion Lawson Little—looked like money from home today as 49 top-flight golfers headed into the eighth annual Augusta Masters tournament.

Two streamlined 68's, carded on successive days in practice over the feather-smooth Augusta national course, sent Little's stock booming—and squeeped odds on the Californian from a preliminary 8 to 1 down to 7 to 7, a dead-heat with Sam Snead, Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson.

"I'm hitting 'em," he said simply. "Whether I can keep doing it for the next four days of course, is another thing."

Nelson, meanwhile, continued to have trouble on the greens, missing apparent easy putts.

BROWN BEGINS TO BUILD BUCK ATTACK

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Coach Paul Brown today will start building the offense to be employed next fall by his Ohio State football team.

The new Buckeye mentor said, "Although we will start working on our offense today we still will go through thorough drills in fundamentals and calisthenics."

Big Bill Lee's Holdout

BIG BILL LEE

Big Bill Lee, Chicago Cubs' star pitcher of 1938 and 1939, is still a holdout, unusual for him. Lee, who had a bad season last year and was asked to take a heavy salary slash, has expressed the hope he will be traded. Lee has been offered $12,000, it is reported. He is believed to have received $20,000 when he was the Cubs' star.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—A win for Lou Nova over Max Baer tomorrow night would be a swell birthday present for his manager, Ray Carlen . . . Also today is the second birthday of Nova's daughter, Hertha Lou, and of his bosom buddy, Art Cohn, the Oakland, Calif., sports colyumist. . . . Claude Passeau, the Cubs' pitching ace, deducted for two dead mules in his income tax and says he will dig 'em up if anybody thinks it's a gag. . . . Zeke Bonura, who was sold to Minneapolis, still is moping in New Orleans and says he'll stick to the banana business if he can't be in the big leagues.

ONE SURE BET:

A remarkable man is Maxie Baer

The Great Big man who's in our hair

Against Lou Nova he may look awful

But win or lose, he'll talk a jawful.

TOUCHING ALL BASES.

Under threat of a $10 fine, Peewee Reese and Pete Reiser of them Dodgers have shaved off attempts at mustaches. . . . Joe Medwick is swaggering agam with a 17-game hitting streak that includes four homers in the last four days. . . . Bill Terry, accompanied by Coach Pancho Snyder, is making the Giants' barnstorming trip by auto and is so fast he often beats the train. . . . Suitcase Simpson, a Pirate rookie since farmed out to Albany, received a letter from his father asking whether he was one of the players fined $100 by Manager Frisch or the one soaked $250. . . "My father has great confidence in me," cackled Suitcase, who was in the clear here. . . . Wally Moses' shoulder, hurt in an auto smashup, is slow in mending and he may miss the Athletics' opener.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR:

Jerry Mitchell, New York Post: Fred Haney of the Browns calls his man, Walter Judnich, the best young outfielder in the American league. . . . He must look the other way when Dom DiMaggio and Barney McCosky are around.

HITTING THE HIGH SPOTS.

Canada Lee, ex-pug star of the Broadway hit, Native Son, hopped down to Philly to second Fighter Buddy Moore when the show had a night off Monday. . . . Abe Simon has made 40 personal appearances since his shindig with Louis. . . . Oklahoma U. is endowing the telegraph companies in an effort to find a big-time football foe for a 1942 semi-centennial date . . . Derby winter books are getting a heavy play on Fairmond, the English importation of E. F. Woodward, Texas oil man.

Long Island U. students are drumming up a protest meeting because of a report the Blackbirds will drop football. . . . Jack Kearns sent a long letter to Dempsey trying to explain that newspaper interview in which he said Joe Louis could lick the Manassa Mauler of old.

FIVE STAR FINAL.

Baer took $3,000 to $1,000 he would kayo Nova.

Tippy Takes Job at Brown

Dye Named Head Cage Coach at University.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A "little guy" who made the football big-time on the Ohio State university playing field is fighting his way up the ladder as a coach.

William H. (Tippy) Dye, nine-letterman at Ohio State, has been appointed assistant football and head basketball coach at Brown university and is expected in Providence, R. I. Monday to begin his new duties.

Thousands of Buckeye grid fans remember "Tip" as the midget quarterback who spark-plugged the Scarlet and Gray in 1935, 36 and 37 with his sparkling open-field running and passing.

The five-foot, six-inch athlete also played guard on the varsity basketball team and was a utility infielder on the Buckeye baseball nine.

After his graduation in 1937, Dye played with the Cincinnati Bengals of the American Professional Football league and was their backfield coach the following year. In 1939 he went to Grandview high school, located in a Columbus suburb only a mile from the huge stadium where he helped make football history, as head football and basketball coach.

Post Odds On Flag Scramble

Reds and Yankees Liked By Broadway Bookies.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK —(INS)— The first odds on the impending pennant races made their appearance along Broadway today and a glance at them will show you that the bookies, at least, believe both major leagues are about to stage a three-club finish.

* * *

One bookie cautioned us that the following prices are subject to change at a moment's notice. For instance, if Hank Greenberg should be drafted by Uncle Sam, the price on the Tigers would soar several points.

* * *

Here they are and let your conscience be your guide:

National League		American League
Cincinnati	2-1	Cleveland	3-1
Brooklyn	4-1	New York	3-1
St. Louis	5-1	Detroit	4-1
Chicago	12-1	Chicago	10-1
Pittsburgh	15-1	Boston	12-1
New York	10-1	St. Louis	15-1
Boston	50-1	Washington	50-1
Philad'phia	200-1	Philad'phia	100-1

You will note that the Broadway bookies, at least, haven't conceded the pennant to the Indians. We took a consensus among them and herewith are the capsule opinons of of the men who let their money talk for them.

"Reds:—The solid team. Great pitching and pitching still is 80 per cent of baseball.

"Dodgers:—Might take it all but their pitching has to prove itself.

"Cardinals:—A real threat if the youngsters come through. If not, we may be quoting 50 to 1 against them by June.

"Cubs!—Still in the experimental stage and nobody knows how Nofikoff will go.

"Pirates:—A great club and a corking manager in Frankie Frisch. But no pitching at all.

"Giants.—Coming apart at the seams. They simply don't rate.

"Bees.—Two or three outstanding men but not enough punch.

"Phillies:—Ought to be in the International league and we'd lay a price against them even there.

"Yanks:—If the youngsters click, they're a shoo-in. If not, they won't run one-two-three.

"Indians:—They appear to have what it takes—on paper—but they still must show us on the ball field.

* * *

"Tigers:—Better than rated and if Uncle Sam doesn't interfere they'll be there or thereabouts all the way.

"White Sox:—A nice club but short on pitching.

"Red Sox:—Like the Pirates, they have no pitching at all.

"Browns:—Could surprise everybody if Fred Haney can work a miracle with some of those old cast-offs on his pitching staff.

"Senators:—Even Bucky Harris admits they're going nowhere.

"Athletics:—More or less hopeless."

BOWLING GREEN —(AP)— Miami university will play Bowling Green university in football for the first time this fall. The Bee Gee squad will play nine games in its first season under Coach Bob Whittaker, former Sandusky high school mentor: Wooster, Sept. 27; at Akron, Oct. 3; at Miami, Oct. 11; at Michigan Normal, Oct. 18; Heidelberg, Oct. 25; at Kent State, Nov. 1; at Wittenberg, Nov. 8; Findlay, Nov. 15; and Wayne, Nov. 20.

There would be more ideal cities but for the scarcity of ideal citizens.

Feller-Hubbell Battle Renewed

Bob Booked For Seven Frames Second Time.

TALLADEGA, Ala. — (U P) — The Bob Feller-Carl Hubbell huring feud, which started in 1937, will be renewed here today as the Cleveland Indians and the New York Giants continue their cross-country spring training series.

The Cleveland ace probably will make his second seven-inning appearance of the season while Hubbell may be named by Manager Bill Terry to go the full route.

Harry Gumbert went the full nine innings for the Giants yesterday against the Indians at Selma, Ala., but the New Yorkers bumped into the effective pitching of Indian Hurlers Al Smith and Ken Jungles and lost, 3 to 1.

Smith got off to a shaky start as the Giants got to him for five hits in the first three innings but scored their only run when the Indian southpaw walked Frank Demaree with the bases loaded in the second.

The Indians also started fast against Gumbert, rapping out six hits in the first three innings. Left Fielder Gee Walker gave Cleveland its first tally with a home run over the left field fence. A double by Roy Weatherly, an error, an infield single by Lou Boudreau and a force out gave the Indians their margin of victory in the third.

The Indians made seven hits and the Giants were good for five.

Tracksters Selected For Meet

Marks Poor as Team Tries For Trip.

There were no balls of fire prancing around Stadium field yesterday afternoon as Track Coach Harry Mehock put his Mansfield High Tygers through their tryout paces for Saturday's meet at Newark.

"I've seen boys run," mourned Mehock, "and these boys can't run. Not now at least. Maybe some day. They're all young, though, and if we don't win a point this year we ought to be able to pick up a few next spring."

Elroy "Lightnin'" Jones took three events, "under wraps," and wasn't threatening any records.

Squad members who "qualified" for the Newark meet are listed below. Eichler and Parker tied in the high jump at five-foot, three, with Shiplet third. Other team members are listed in the order they finished, with best marks.

High hurdles—Butterfield, Sowash, White, 17.5.

100 yard dash—Jones, Cameron, Palmer, 10.7.

Mile—Bergstrom, Pore, Sowash, 9:05.

440 yard run—Woodbury, Timmons, Burrage, 50.6.

Pole vault—Robertson, Meister, Eisaman, 10 feet.

Low hurdles—Jones, Butterfield, Burkholder, 28.5.

220 yard dash—Becker, Oberholtzer, Witchey, 24.8.

880 yard run—Burkholder, Todd, Sowash, 2:17.

Shot putt—Jones, Dietzel, Kinkle, 42 feet, 6 inches.

Discus—Abele, Dietzel, Brandt, 102 feet, 7 inches.

Newark will depend on its one-man track team, Bill Craig, for points in the shot putt, discus, hurdles and high jump.

* * *

Mansfield's reserve squad will meet the Bucyrus first team in a meet at Stadium field tomorrow afternoon. Since Bucyrus just began track practice this week there may be some competition.

California Gains Edge In Badminton

CLEVELAND —(AP)— It's the nation against California in the fifth annual Amateur Badminton championship tournament which opened here today.

More than 200 of the country's ranking players, including the two men and four women who captured all the cups in 1940, will bat the shuttlecocks for three days.

Play is on nine parallel courts in Cleveland's public auditorium.

Big name in the tourney is David G. Freeman, a Pasadena, Calif., product, who last year beat Walter R. Kramer of Detroit, 15-4, 15-4, in the men's finals to retain the title he took from Kramer in 1939.

Knox Loses Verdict to Jim Bivins

Mansfield's Beauford Glover Beats Wallace.

By LARRY HAUCK

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The new heavyweight boxing champion of Ohio—or at least as much of the state as Cleveland can control pugilistically—is Jimmy Bivins, a light heavyweight.

The tall, long-armed Clevelander stepped out of his weight class last night, gave 18 pounds to Buddy Knox of Dayton and beat the Blond Bomber in a mauling 10-round bout that kept 6,347 fans arguing long after the verdict was announced.

* * *

The only things official about Bivins' title are Promoter Bob Brickman's declaration that he is champion and his inheritance of Knox's championship claims. The state's other official champion is Buddy Walker of Columbus, so recognized by the Columbus boxing commission.

Meanwhile another Bivins-Knox fight probably will be arranged here.

The Associated Press score sheet concurred in the unanimous decision of two judges and the referee, but Jimmy's victory, his 23rd in 24 fights, was booed by the crowd.

Knox, weighing 190, won the fourth, eighth, ninth and tenth rounds, with the second and fifth close. Bivins had a big edge in the others, however.

The Clevelander won the fight by piling up an early margin with an annoying left jab and some hard rights. Buddy scored heaviest in the in-fighting, where he took full advantage of his extra weight.

Before the fight, the Dayton Irishman said he would retire if he was knocked out or beaten badly.

After the fight he said: "I meant every word I said about retiring, but who is to say I got beat tonight."

Maxie Berger, Montreal, stopped Irish Eddie Dunne of New York City in the fifth round of the 10-round semi-final on a technical knockout. Berger weighed 144 and Dunne 147.

* * *

Beauford Glover, 144, of Mansfield, dropped Frankie Wallace, 142, Cleveland veteran, for counts of nine and four in the second round to coast into a five-round decision. Wallace stunned Glover in the third, but the final count was 4-1 for the Mansfielder.

Reds-Red Sox Series Evened

Hose Hand Cincinnati First Spring Shutout.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (U P) — The spring training series between the Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Red Sox stood at four-all today as the two teams prepared for the ninth contest in the 16-game series here.

The Red Sox tied the series yesterday at Fort Benning, Ga., as they handed the Reds their first shutout of the season, 3 to 0. Thirty-six-year-old Mike Ryba and young Emercon Dickman combined their efforts to stop the Reds with five hits, all singles.

Elmer Riddle gave up only three hits in the eight innings he worked for the Reds but he was victim of two Redlegs errors and Sammy Hale's single in the second inning as the Red Sox scored their first run.

Pitching before his hometown admirers, Riddle turned in a creditable performance as only two Red Sox reached first base after the second inning until he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Elmer's brother, John, caught the entire game.

The Red Sox scored two more runs off Joe Beggs in the ninth when third baseman Jim Tabor doubled with the bases loaded.

Johnny Vander Meer for the Reds and Woody Rich for the Red Sox were the scheduled starting pitchers today.

Joost Stamina Gets Test As Reds' Regular Shortstop

EDDIE JOOST

(AP Feature Service Writer)

TAMPA, Fla.—Eddie Joost, the young infielder who some say "saved" the 1939 National league pennant for Cincinnati, may make or break the Reds' bid for a third successive flag.

Two years ago when the Reds were battling the St. Louis Cardinals down the stretch, second baseman Linus Frey was forced out of the lineup. A poor replacemen around the keystone sack might have handicapped the Reds just enough to let the Cardinals slip in ahead.

But Joost came up off the bench to show some sensational fielding and timely hitting that filled the gap securely.

* * *

This spring Eddie finds himself asked to fill a slot regularly throughout the whole season. Manager Bill McKechnie has broken up the infield quartet that twice carried the Reds to victory. Shortstop Billy Myers was traded to the Chicago Cubs and Joost has been nominated as the full-time shortfielder.

Played 88 in '40.

This is Eddie's first chance as a daily player since he came up to the Reds in 1939 from Kansas City. He played in only 42 games his first season but saw almost as much action last year as Myers, appearing in 88 contests.

Joost is thin, 5-foot-11, and weighs 162 pounds. Some say he is too frail, can't go the full season. Eddie disagrees: "I've got plenty of strength," he says, "and I'll show those fellows that I can play good ball through the hot months."

Eddie thought he had a regular job when he first came up. He was being used at second, with Myers at short and Frey at third. Then Cincinnati bought Bill Werber from the Athletics. Werber took third, Frey moved to second and Joost got the utility role.

The players feel that Joost will go well. Said one fellow-infielder:

"Sure he'll be all right, he's better than Myers ever was and don't forget he played more than half of last season."

* * *

Eddie is pretty fast but his hitting is weak. He hit only .216 last season, batted in two dozen runs. He's never hit better than .289 in eight years of minor and major league ball. But the Reds aren't losing any power. Myers was never in the .300 class and hit just .202 last season.

Mattick Also Used.

In the spring exhibition games McKechnie is also using Bob Mattick, who came from the Cubs in the Myers deal, at shortstop. Some of the rookies have worked there, too. It seems that McKechnie has almost decided to go with Joost, but isn't sure. Mattick played in 128 games for the Cubs last year and some regard him as better than Joost.

* * *

One rival manager, who doubts Joost's ability to go the distance and isn't so high on Mattick, figures that McKechnie plans a trade for a new shortstop.

The rest of the Reds' infield is a carry-over and stacks up with the best in the league—hard-hitting Frank McCormick at first, Frey at second and Werber at third. The only other change in the Reds' lineup may come in the outfield. Mike McCormick is a certainty and Ival Goodman likely will start in right. But left field still is open. There's fast-fielding, poor-hitting Harry Craft; Jim Ripple, a stretch player who starred late last season, and Jim Gleason, who came from the Cubs and hit .316.

It's a stronger ball club than the Reds won with last year. And it's going to be hard to keep them from another flag.

Slap Predicts Light Hitting

Won't Need Slugging For Tribe Hurlers.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Vice President C. C. Slapnicka was back from the Florida training camp today with the season's first official report on the Cleveland Indians. The concensus of his remarks was:

* * *

"We won't have a .350 hitter on the club, but I don't think we'll need one."

"I'm not going to do any talking about a pennant, but I will predict that the Indians will stay in the race all season."

Of the new players, Slapnicka praised highly the showing of Pitchers Jim Bagby and Joe Krakauskas and Outfielder Gerry Walker. He added that the play of Catcher Gene Desaultels convinced him the club weakened itself little by trading Frankie Pytlak to Boston.

"Our pitching will be better, especially in relief work," the vice president declared. "The outfield will be considerably stronger, the infield just as good and the catching on a par with that of last year.

"Most of our players will wind up with batting averages of from .270 to .320. With consistent hitting like that, I don't believe we'll have anything to worry about."

Of the added relief specialists, he said Clint Brown had been slow in rounding into form but that Joe Heving was ready for action now.

Amateur Titles Held By New Battlers

BOSTON —(AP)— Eight national A. A. U. boxing crowns rested on new brows today—three of them on the heads of Massachusetts youngsters who dominated the climax bouts of the three-day carnival of fisticuffing at Boston Garden.

Jimmy Mulligan, the hard-hitting Lowell schoolboy, hit the jack-pot in a bruising 160-pound struggle with durable Johnny Lawer, of Cleveland.

Jim Reddick, St. Louis, finished second best for the second successive year when he dropped another close decision to Shelton Bell, Wilberforce, O., in a dull light heavyweight engagement.

Other Massachusetts titlists were Dave Andrews, who punched out a hairline decision over crafty George Horne of Cleveland in the 147 pound division, and featherweight Frank Leonard, Taunton, who outpointed Sarl Palombo, of Amsterdam, N. Y., decisively.

COMEDIAN LLOYD WASN'T FUNNY HERE

ST. PAUL —(INS)— Movie Comedian Harold Lloyd, after a poor start with his 508 total in the team event, comes back to the alleys at the American Bowling Congress late today for an attempted comeback in the singles and doubles.

One change in the leaders last night sent Ned Day, national match game champion, into fifth place in the all-events with a 1,944 pincount.

FOILS THIEF

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. —(INS)— The clatter of a falling cigaret-vending machine replaced a burglar alarm in a Williamsport store. Police reported the machine fell as a robber attempted to open it, frightening him away before he could touch a cash register.

MACK CHUCKLES

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. —(AP)— Reports that Second Baseman Benny McCoy might be traded to the White Sox were only a gag to Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics. "It's pure bunk," he said "It would take a handsome offer to make me even consider a trade for McCoy. His showing the other day (when he got four hits) was most encouraging, and I am sure he will play even better."

METEOR?

EXETER, Pa.—(U.P.)—Police and state fire marshals investigating a fire at an Exeter coal breaker have forwarded a large piece of foreign metal to Harrisburg for analysis after residents said they saw a large ball of fire fall from the sky and strike the building.

Workers digging through the ruins discovered the 95 pound metalic mass which had twisted a railroad rail into a loop shape, giving rise to the theory that a meteor may have fired the breaker.
